U. S. and Britain Told of Plans Under Monetary Pact

Paris — (U) — Premier Camille Chautemps called on parliament today to give him the "necessary powers" to save the nation's finances while France temporarily went off the gold standard amid new talk of further devaluation of the franc.

Tentative suspension of dealings in gold and foreign exchange payments — to protect the franc during parliamentary debate on financial reforms — was decreed by the new finance minister, Georges Bonnet.

Bonnet acted within 24 hours after assuming the finance post, having just returned as ambassador to Washington. It was the government's first step in an effort to prevent speculation in the franc, flight of French capital and to effect reorganization of the French financial structure in face of a vast prospective deficit.

Possibility of a new devaluation of the franc within the framework of the tri-partite monetary agreement between France, United States and Great Britain was seen by parliamentary observers. The government moved to enlist the aid of those two countries in solving its financial difficulties.

Outlines Plan

Rene Brunet, undersecretary of state for finance, said the government had advised both the United States and Great Britain that France desired to devalue the franc from the present parity with the dollar and the pound.

The monetary agreement binds the three nations to help each other steady their currencies.

Brunet, talking with deputies of the socialist bloc, was represented as saying that France desired to act in complete accord with the other two members of the tri-partite agreement.

Lowering of the franc's value in relation to the currencies of Britain and the United States has been persistently discussed in parliamentary circles that the franc might be forced down to the level that existed during the administration of the late president Raymond Poincaré — 25.32 to the dollar, or about 4 cents for each franc, about half a cent less than at present.

Tension increased when the socialist bloc of deputies, after hearing former Premier Leon Blum, adjourned without making any definite commitment of support for the government's new program.

New Tax Measures

Fear was expressed that if communists voted against the new government, part of the socialists would join them.

Brunet was quoted as saying that new tax measures contemplated by the government would bring in 2,000,000,000 francs (about $88,000,000) annually to help the regime out of its fiscal morass.

The gold and foreign exchange moratorium was coupled with a decree in the official journal which closed stock markets and all commercial exchanges until further notice.

A shutdown of hotels, restaurants and cafes — and possibly retail stores in Paris — scheduled for July 3 as a protest against the 40-hour week still contributed a major threat for the new regime.

Paris retailers said they would join in the mass lockout because they had unjustly suffered under the shortened work week. It has been decreed for hotels, restaurants and cafes although not yet enforced. Operators said the added costs would be ruinous.

Spreading of the 40-hour week through much of French business and industry was accomplished under Blum. Chautemps called an employer conference Thursday in an attempt to avert the closure.

Butler Says Bloodstained Young Man Tried to Sell Automobile

Inglewood, Calif. — (U) — Search for a "sex fiend" who lured three small girls from a park, attacked and choked them to death, centered around fashionable Beverly Hills today after a butler reported a frantic, bloodstained young man tried to sell him an automobile for $15.

The butler, in a fashionable home in Bel-Air, residential district adjoining Beverly Hills, said the youth appeared desperate when he rang the door bell last night.

"I've got to sell my car," the butler quoted him. "I've got to sell it. I'll take $15 and you can have it." When the butler hesitated the man added quickly: "All right, I'll take $10."

When the butler went into the house ostensibly to get the money he telephoned police and the stranger fled.

Several hours after the garroted and bruised bodies of Melba Marie Everett, 9, her sister, Madeline Everett, 7, and Jeanette Marjorie Stephens, 3, were found in a Baldwin Hills gulch yesterday, an order was issued for the detention of Othel Leroy Strong, 22.

Says Suspect Absolved

From Sheriff L. C. Huntamer of Olympia, Wash., however, came the information Strong was working at a tie mill near there and "has been absolved of any connection whatsoever with the killing of three girls at Inglewood, Calif."

Sheriff Huntamer said he learned Strong had not been out of that vicinity for some time.

The Washington disclosures followed an announcement by officials in San Diego that a man had been captured at nearby Del Mar after fleeing from a train. Deputy Sheriff Jack Cornell at first said the man answered the description of Strong. This identification was quickly discarded. He was held on a vagrancy charge.

Another suspect, Otto Rasmussen, 23-year-old longshoreman, was questioned after his arrest at Los Angeles on charges of attacking a 20-year-old girl.

Last Saturday, the three little victims were playing in Centinela park, close by their homes. Then they left some of their playthings and ran across the grounds, calling out they were going to hunt rabbits.

By night, County Attorney Surcouer Dr. A. F. Wazner reported, they had been attacked and murdered.

Irwin Named in 3 Indictments

Sculptor Accused of First Degree Murder in Geddon Killings

New York — (U) — Scarcely 10 minutes after Mrs. Ethel Kudner completed her story of the mad impulse which led Robert Irwin to kill her mother, her sister and a lodger last Easter Sunday, a New York county grand jury handed up three indictments today charging the eccentric sculptor with first degree murder.

Still showing signs of the fear in which she had lived since the triple killing on Beekman Hill, Mrs. Kudner went before the grand jury shortly before noon. Five police officers followed in quick succession and District Attorney William C. Dodge emerged with the indictments.

House Sends Relief Bill To Roosevelt

Adopts Recommendations Of Conferees to Com- plete Action

ERASE AMENDMENT

Senate Plan for Data on WPA Jobs and Salaries Is Struck Out

Washington — (U) — The house sent the administration's $1,500,000,000 relief bill to the White House today for approval.

It completed congressional action on the measure by adopting recommendations of conferees on settlement of differences between the house and senate.

The recommendations struck out a senate amendment that would have required the WPA to make public names, positions and salaries of all administrative officials.

The bill authorized extension of the PWA for two more years and allotted it $359,000,000 for grants for public works projects.

The senate approved the conference report yesterday.

The interior department bill went to a joint committee after the senate rejected a proposal to cut $10,000,000 from vocational education funds.

Army Funds Debate

A third joint committee considering the army bill was deadlocked over the question of including non-military appropriations, such as flood control funds. The house put these in a separate measure.

All other supply bills for the next year either have been signed by the president or are on his desk.

The $630,000,000 agriculture department bill was sent to the White House yesterday after the senate agreed to restore a $50,000,000 cut made in a $500,000,000 appropriation for soil conservation benefit payments.

That reduction, which the house would not accept, had been the largest single cut during an economy campaign. The bill's final total was $3,000,000 lower than the budget bureau's recommendation.

Passage of the annual appropriation bills is one of congress' most important tasks. When it is completed the senate and house can take up pending administration measures — court and government organization, agricultural aid, labor standards, housing, and the like.

Roosevelt and DuPont Marriage Is Rehearsed

Wilmington, Del. — (U) — Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., and Ethel DuPont will go through the motions of getting married today just to be sure they know their routine for tomorrow's big, solemn ceremony.

Before and after the rehearsal, set for 5 o'clock, the younger members of the DuPont and Roosevelt clans crammed the couple's last betrothal day with gay parties, dashes about the countryside to meet trains, and joyous reunions with friends.

Guests were arriving by train and motor. A few went to Owl's Nest, spreading estate of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene DuPont, about eight miles from Wilmington and roughly half that distance from Christ church, where the wedding will be held at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Woman Shoots Two Sons Before She Kills Self

Detroit — (U) — Attracted by shots from within his wife's locked bedroom, Homer Dickson battered down the door today to find her dead and their two small sons wounded, one fatally.

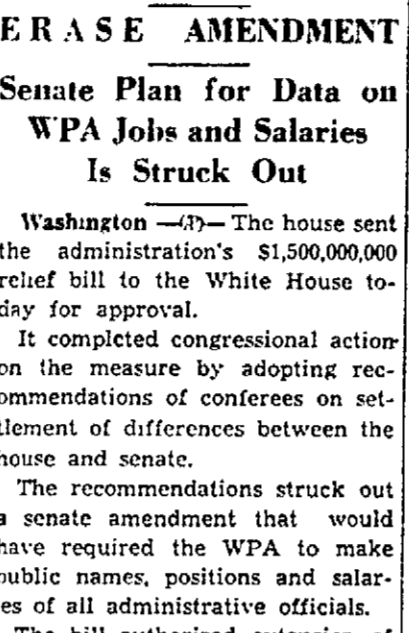

The elder son, Donald, 6, died a few minutes after he was admitted to a hospital. Physicians said Joseph, 16 months old, was in a critical condition, a bullet in his brain.

Dickson said his wife, Belva, 44, had been in ill health. While he was preparing for work this morning, he said, Mrs. Dickson carried the two sleeping children into her room and locked the door.

Hearing the shots he forced his way in and found Mrs. Dickson's body on the floor, a bullet in the temple and a 22 caliber rifle nearby. The children, each shot in the head, lay on a bed.

Dorothy Rounds Bests Helen Jacobs, 6-4, 6-2

Wimbledon, England — (U) — Dorothy Round of England toppled Helen Jacobs of California from her Wimbledon tennis singles throne today with a straight set victory, 6-4, 6-2.

Miss Jacobs' unexpected defeat in the quarter-finals left Miss Alice Marble, American champion, as the Stars and Stripes' standard bearer in the all-England women's championships. Miss Marble gained the semi-finals by defeating the second seeded favorite, Mme. Hilda Krahwinkel-Sperling of Denmark and Germany, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3. Her semi-final opponent is Jadwiga Jedzejewski of Poland.

Non-Resident Nevada Divorces are Nullified

Chicago — (U) — The appellate court declared null and void today Reno divorces procured by persons not bona fide residents of Nevada, even though they fulfill the six weeks' Nevada statutory requirements.

The decision, in the annulment case of Mrs. Dorothy Jardine, Chicago real estate heiress, upheld a lower court decision that such easy divorces are "abhorrent to law and a stench in the nostrils of society."

Propose Group to Devise Plan to Boost Democracy

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Democracy in Wisconsin isn't functioning as well as the founding fathers intended, and the legislature has been asked to do something about it.

This was revealed yesterday in a plan Assemblyman Mark S. Catlin, (R), Appleton, Felix Kremer (P), Phillips, and Francis T. Murphy, (D), Milwaukee, for the appointment of an interim legislative committee to study methods "to provide for a more efficient and universal democracy."

The resolution by the trio proclaimed that "this is an age of rapid progress in which democracy is not keeping pace with the times, and we are still a long way from the goal of a 'government of the people by the people, and for the people.'"

"At the strenuous November election of 1936 more than 400,000 voters in the state of Wisconsin failed to cast their ballots," the resolution

National Income For Half Year Is Set at 35 Billion

Higher Than Last Year but Still Below Figure Of 1929

Washington — (U) — Administration economists said today that national income, spinning upward since 1933, will total about $35,000,000,000 for the first half of this year.

This figure, based on incomplete business statistics, surpasses the $30,000,000,000 income of the comparable period last year but falls short of the $39,000,000,000 in 1929.

Besides increased business activity, authorities said, an important factor in the upturn this year has been a broad rise in prices.

The income figures represent the total distribution of money in wages, salaries, interest, dividends, royalties, rents and similar items.

Commerce department officials said the business outlook for the remainder of this year is clouded with uncertainties, particularly those arising from labor disputes.

If labor troubles should ease, they said, business may be expected to continue the upturn recorded for the first half of the year, which has ranged between 10 and 15 per cent over last year.

These officials added, "however, that a sharp recession might result from further major disturbances."

U. S. Mediation Efforts at End, Perkins Asserts

Washington — (U) — Secretary Perkins said today the government's efforts to mediate the steel strike had collapsed. She added, however, she was studying the industrial dispute to determine if further mediation steps are possible.

Miss Perkins made her statement after a conference with Charles P. Taft, chairman of the federal steel mediation board. Taft began drafting a preliminary report.

Taft, Miss Perkins said, was "working on notes to put down the board's work as a matter of record. It will be the basis of a full report to the labor department."

"The board is suspended," Miss Perkins said. "It made a recommendation which required assent of both sides. Two steel companies replied at once that they would not accede and the other two replied in 24 hours that they too would not accede."

"There is nothing more the board can think of to recommend. It was a constructive compromise proposal."

Shields Says People 'May Take Law in Own Hands'

CIO LEADER SOUGHT Warrant Out in Ohio; 3 Alleged Terror- ists Jailed

Johnstown, Pa. — (U) — Mayor Daniel J. Shields of Johnstown telegraphed President Roosevelt today that the "people of my city may take the law in their own hands" unless the John L. Lewis steel union forces are withdrawn.

"I appeal to you direct," the mayor said, "to make it possible for good citizens of my community to enjoy liberty for which our forefathers spilled blood and this can be accomplished by the overthrow of the un-American empire that John L. Lewis is building up."

In a second telegram to Governor George H. Earle, protesting against the dynamiting of two water lines to the Bethlehem Steel corporation's Cambria works, Mayor Shields asked that state police be placed immediately on guard at all reservoirs in the territory.

To Earle, he added: "Prompt action may save an entire community against annihilation."

New Post Office Will be Erected At New London

$83,000 Is Allotted for Construction of Building

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Representative George J. Schneider, Appleton, today announced that construction of new postoffice buildings at De Pere, Kiel, New London, Peshtigo and West De Pere is planned under the public building program to be carried on under the direction of the procurement division of the treasury department.

Appropriations for a new post office building program will be included the third deficiency appropriation bill to be introduced in the house shortly, Schneider said. In addition to the new buildings, an additional appropriation of $11,000 has been recommended for completion of the post office building at Kewaunee, according to Schneider. The sum of $73,000 has already been allotted for Kewaunee under a former appropriation bill.

The estimated cost of the new postoffice buildings is as follows: De Pere, $75,000; Kiel, $70,000; New London, $63,000; Peshtigo, $70,000; West De Pere, $70,000.

The cities where new buildings are to be constructed are not specified in appropriation bills passed by congress. The selections are made jointly by the postoffice and treasury departments. Schneider has presented to the departments additional information to justify the inclusion of a new postoffice building at Crandon in the construction program. Department officials have indicated they believe Crandon's case merits its inclusion in the program, Schneider said.

Hill Is Elected Head of Bankers

Port Washington Man New President of Wisconsin Association

On Board the Steamship Seaboard, Lake Michigan — (U) — Clarence Hill, board chairman of the Port Washington State Bank, was elected president today of the Wisconsin Bankers' association at the final session of the forty-third annual convention of the organization, which was held aboard the steamship Seaboard.

Hill, who has been engaged in the banking business since 1920, was vice president last year, and succeeds Robert L. Banks, vice president of the First National bank, Superior, Wisconsin.

Frederick Hansen, president of Thomas Gibson Inc., New York, told the delegates today anti-religious movements, a $5 billion dollar armament program and world-wide inflation due to unbalanced budgets were examples of "crowd madness."

"As history shows," Hansen pointed out, "that once so explosive an emotional movement gets under way it will run its course. A policy of summing up rather than fighting against this tide is indicated until it has reached its approximate peak."

"The banker's main considerations during such periods are liquidity and the course of interest rates. To the extent he carries long term bonds he is speculating on the latter and also with his liquidity and solvency," he said.

American Teams Win Lead Over British

Southport, England — (U) — Led by the teams of Ed Dudley and Byron Nelson, and Ralph Guldahl and Tony Manero, the United States today gained a 2-1 lead over Great Britain's team of professional golfers in the Scotch foursomes division of the biennial Ryder cup play.

The Dudley-Nelson and Guldahl-Manero combine won their matches, while Gene Sarazen and Byron Shute finished theirs all even for half a point and Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta lost to Percy Alliss and Richard Burton, 2 and 1.

Revolta and Horton Smith, who complained of a bad shoulder and asked to be excused, were dropped from the American team for tomorrow's singles. Meanwhile, the British dropped Cotton to fourth place, where he will meet Manero. Sam Snead will be the lone newcomer to the United States squad in the individual play.

2 Slightly Hurt When Steamer Strikes Bridge

Milwaukee — (U) — Two passengers were slightly injured and 143 others aboard the excursion steamer City of Grand Rapids were shaken up yesterday when the ship crashed into the Buffalo street bridge.

Mrs. Katherine Connolly, Chicago, 30, and an unidentified man were treated for arm and shoulder bruises at the County Emergency hospital and were allowed to leave after treatment.

The boat was able to make its return trip to Chicago, but Manuel Cutler, superintendent of bridges and buildings, said the damage to the bridge would be more than $25,000. He said the span will be closed for six weeks or a month for repairs.

Police said Captain F. M. Morgan, commanding officer of the steamer, said mupix in signals between the bridge and the engine room was the cause of the accident.

Shields Says People 'May Take Law in Own Hands'

CIO LEADER SOUGHT Warrant Out in Ohio; 3 Alleged Terror- ists Jailed

Johnstown, Pa. — (U) — Mayor Daniel J. Shields of Johnstown telegraphed President Roosevelt today that the "people of my city may take the law in their own hands" unless the John L. Lewis steel union forces are withdrawn.

"I appeal to you direct," the mayor said, "to make it possible for good citizens of my community to enjoy liberty for which our forefathers spilled blood and this can be accomplished by the overthrow of the un-American empire that John L. Lewis is building up."

In a second telegram to Governor George H. Earle, protesting against the dynamiting of two water lines to the Bethlehem Steel corporation's Cambria works, Mayor Shields asked that state police be placed immediately on guard at all reservoirs in the territory.

To Earle, he added: "Prompt action may save an entire community against annihilation."

The two explosions at Johnstown, ripping away pipelines supplying water to the big Franklin mill and the Gautier plant — major units of the Cambria works — may mean the closing of the entire works for two weeks, General Manager C. R. Elliott said. The mills had reopened a week ago after being closed by martial law.

To prevent damage from a sudden stoppage of water, Elliott ordered five 15 open hearth furnaces and the rolling mill in the Franklin plant.

May Affect Others

Because the open hearth and blast furnaces supply raw materials, it was probable other units would be affected.

The first explosion about midnight broke the six-foot line running from the ten million-gallon Quakamoking dam, 11 miles south of Johnstown, to the Franklin mill which consumes half of the water used by the Cambria works.

The second blast at 3:05 a. m. (eastern daylight time) was heard for more than two miles. It snapped the 36-inch line from border dam to the Gautier mill.

Water temporarily was being turned into the company's lines from the Johnstown municipal system.

Captain William A. Clark, in command of the state police, immediately called to duty all of the 200 troopers stationed in the strike zone and ordered the closing of virtually every road in the Somerset-Cambria county area.

Bill Provides for Per Capita Payment To Menominee Tribe

Washington — (U) — The interior department bill passed by the senate, contains provision for a per capita payment to the Menominee Indians of Wisconsin.

Inserted in the bill in committee by Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin, the provision calls for a $50 per capita payment amounting to $105,000.

Another amendment increased to $85,500 the $75,000 voted by the house for allowances to old and indigent Menominee Indians. Another item calls for $5,000 for a day school building for the Keshena Indians.

Conferences of Church Groups Draw Delegations

Appleton Represented at Camp Byron and Kenosha

Church conferences at Camp Byron, near Fond du Lac, and at Kenosha have drawn members of two Appleton congregations out of town this week.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cox, Mrs. J. R. Denyes and Mrs. Edith Wright left for Camp Byron, where an adult education week is being conducted under the auspices of the Wisconsin Conference of the Methodist church. Dr. Cox, who is pastor of the local First Methodist Episcopal church, is dean of the course. Among the prominent speakers will be Grace Sloan Overton, who is well-known in interdenominational circles, and Dr. J. R. Throckmorton, Chicago, head of men's work in the denomination. The week's program closes Friday noon.

The Rev. L. E. Schlagenhauf, district superintendent of the Methodist church, will also be out of town much of this week. He attended a quarterly conference at Seymour last night, and he will attend similar conferences at Manitowish and at Green Bay Wednesday.

At State Meet

At Kenosha this week attending the state Luther League convention are the Rev. D. E. Bosserman, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, and Miss Lillian Ertl, Ada Rademacher and Mary Greunk. They left here Sunday afternoon and are expected back Wednesday. The Ladies Aid society of Trinity church will have its meeting in Pierce park Thursday, and the men will join them for supper.

The Rev. and Mrs. William Spicer of St. Paul's Episcopal church returned Saturday from Lake Julia, near Three Lakes, where they had been vacationing during the last week. The Rev. F. M. Brandt, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, left with his family today for a two weeks' vacation, the first part of which will be spent in Sturgeon Bay and the second half in the southern part of the state.

Special Service

A special service, featuring a sacred concert by the men's glee club, will be planned for Wednesday evening at 10:30 at the next Sunday morning. There will also be a sermonette by a member of the choir. At the service at the church last Sunday morning the Rev. G. H. Blum had as his subject, "Forgetting God."

At Zion Lutheran church Sunday morning the Rev. Theodore Marth preached on "Christ and the Fishermen at the Sea of Galilee." The vestry of the church will have its monthly meeting at 7:30 Wednesday evening, and the Ladies society and the Ladies Relief society will have a meeting at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the auditorium.

The services of Memorial Presbyterian church, held Sunday morning at the Masonic temple, will be the last until September, as the church is being remodeled.

Closing Exercises

Closing exercises of the daily vacation Bible school sponsored by the Gospel temple will be held Tuesday evening, and next Monday the temple will have its Sunday school picnic, together with an open air service, at Pierce park. There will also be a baptismal service in the river there.

The merger of the Evangelical and Reformed churches will be discussed Thursday night at a joint meeting of the boards of the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed and First Evangelical and Reformed churches, at the latter church. The Women's Union of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church will have a picnic meeting at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Pierce park.

At St. Mary's Catholic church this week there will be confession at the regular time Thursday afternoon and evening, and Sacred Heart devotions at 7:30 Friday night.

The lesson-termon at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

"The physical healing of Christian Science results now, as in Jesus' time, from the operation of divine Principle, before which sin and disease lose their reality in human consciousness and disappear, as naturally and as necessarily as darkness gives place to light and sin to reformation. Now, as then, these mighty works are not supernatural, but supreme natural."

Dynamite Severs Two Pipelines at Bethlehem Works

Strikers stubbornly held their lines about the largest of seven gates to the mills.

"Our schedule is rapidly returning to normal," Sidney Evans, management representative, had told newspaper men as he escorted them through the works.

Three Under Arrest

The Warren police, with three alleged terrorists already in jail, announced the hunt for Hall as the back-to-work movement, which Hall and the CIO are bitterly opposing, picked up momentum not only in the Mahoning valley but in Pennsylvania and in the Calumet industrial area of Indiana and Illinois.

Chief of Police B. J. Gillen, in announcing that Hall was being hunted, said that police and national guardsmen working together, had "smashed the dynamite ring" and that the three men under arrest had confessed.

The prisoners are Arthur Scott, John Borawiec and George Bundas. All live in Warren. All were identified as CIO strikers.

Chief Gillen signed the charges against them, against Hall and against two others not yet apprehended—Joe "Slim" Orawiec and Charles Evans.

Attorneys appeared last night and demanded that bond be set for the three under arrest. Judge R. J. Speak of municipal court fixed bail at $25,000 for each prisoner.

Guardsmen as well as county and city officers searched today for Hall, Orawiec and Byers. Hall, police said, has not been seen for more than 24 hours.

The statement by Scott, a white-haired man of 40, said that Hall, Evans and Byers, who is head of the local strike executive committee had issued orders:

1. To blow up the homes of non-striking workers.
2. To set off bombs on the property of the Republic Steel corporation, the light and power company, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Pennsylvania railroads, a bridge at the Trumbull Cliffs furnaces (Republic owned), and
3. To set fire to hundreds of gallons of highly volatile benzol stored near Republic's plant.

Corroborate Statements

The city solicitor, George Burhaw, said that the statements by the other two prisoners, Bundas and Scott, corroborated what Scott said.

The police said "enough explosive to wreck the entire block" was stored in a milk can on the second floor of CIO headquarters here for five days before the first explosion last Wednesday night. Stored there, too, the confessions said, were a machine gun and other weapons.

The plot to blow up the bridge which leads to the Trumbull Cliffs furnaces was "unfounded when a national guard patrol car chased the machine in which the bombers, with several bottles of nitroglycerine ready capped and taped, were riding."

In an effort to get rid of the bombs they tried to throw them into the river. The bombs exploded, damaging the bridge slightly and also the automobile. Guardsmen fired upon the terrorists as they poured away, but lost them in the blackness of the night.

Hall is not a native of Warren but a worker here. He came to Warren, police said, about three months ago and organized the local CIO union.

Long Terms Possible

The charges against the union men were filed under a state law which provides penalties of from one to twenty years for convictions. Accurate figures as to the number of workers who have gone back to the mills continue difficult to obtain, for the statements from the companies and from the union are widely divergent.

A recapitulation today indicated broadly that approximately one-third of the number normally em-

Lions Install New Officers

Also Present H. S. Track Squad With Miniature Gold Shoes

Recently elected officers of the Lions club were installed and members of the Appleton High school track team, winners of state Class A honors and Fox River Valley conference honors, were feted and presented with miniature gold track shoes at a meeting of the Lions yesterday noon at the Con-way hotel.

Officers of the club for the coming year were installed by W. B. Montgomery, retiring president. The new officers are: Carl Holstrom, president; Dave Carlson, first vice president; William Crow, second vice president; Frank Larson, third vice president; Erik Madisen, secretary; Dr. E. N. Krueger, treasurer; Frank Jesse, Lion tamer; Ben Laird, lion twister; Dr. A. W. Zwerger, Herman Franck, directors-at-large.

F. N. Belanger, chairman of the committee which arranged for the high school program, presented the boys with shoes. Other members of the committee were E. A. Dettman and E. C. Moore.

Shoes were given to Jack Sellers, Vincent Jones, Howard Bixby, Don Sadler, Glenn Bowers, Jack Rogers, Ken Slattery, Sonny Filz, Karl Bohnsack, Ralph Colvin, Manager Robert Hoolihan, and Coach Joseph Shields. Colvin was not present because he left Monday morning for the national Boy Scout jamboree, while Bohnsack was recuperating at home from an operation and received his shoe from President Carl Holstrom. Coach Joseph Shields of the squad gave a short talk.

Approve Application For Building Permit

An application for a building permit to build storage warehouse on S. Bounds street was approved for Al Krause by the board of building inspection at a meeting yesterday at the city hall. The warehouse will cost approximately $15,000.

York: Mr. and Mrs. George Ritchie and Hubert Ritchie, Vesper. Mr. and Mrs. P. Hamre and children Robert and Carol, Berlin; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith, Eleanor Smith, Dr. G. A. Ritchie, Margaret Ritchie, Appleton; Misses Mary and Nell Crane, Ripon; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Russell and Clyde Russell, Jr., Marinette; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hoyt, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Anna Stanley, Clintonville.

A large number from Manawa, Royalton, New London, and Weyauwega were also in attendance. There were 95 present. Visitors were Michael Anuta of Marinette and William Rautenbush of Chicago.

Troops Remain

In Ohio there was no indication of early withdrawal of state troops. Half of the state's militia of 10,000 soldiers are now on duty defending "the right to work — the right to strike" as enunciated by Governor Davey. The troops are not serving under martial law. They are "assisting" local peace agencies.

Efforts of the president's three-man mediation board appeared definitely to have collapsed. Edward F. McGrady, one of the mediators, was back in Washington to report to his chief, Secretary Perkins.

Legislature Is Asked to Revive Moratorium Bill

Harry Jack, State Milk Pool President, Files Demand

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—A demand by Harry Jack, Hortonville, president of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, that the moratorium bill recently defeated in the assembly be revived was received by the legislature this week.

The moratorium bill, designed to revise the present law, was defeated, with the aid of some Progressives, early this month.

"The farmers of the state of Wisconsin are somewhat inclined to feel that the action taken by our lawmakers bodies again leaves them the forgotten men," Jack wrote legislators.

Jack informed legislative leaders that the moratorium bill was favored by the Milk Pool at its recent convention at Oshkosh.

When the bill was considered recently, opponents argued that the present moratorium law is satisfactory. Special criticism was directed at the provision in the bill for the abolition of the present county mediation boards and the substitution of new boards with representatives of the state farm and home credit administration included in the membership.

The bill would also have granted an automatic two years extension of mortgages. A substitute is now pending which would retain the presently functioning county boards but it is doubtful whether it will be considered before adjournment next week.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

New York—The league of nations on wheels. That's how Mr. Steve Hannagan gayly refers to Saturday's 300-mile automobile race over the depretzelized Roosevelt raceway on Long Island.

Fitting enough, too. The field includes the ace drivers of America, Italy, Germany, England and Norway, with Ethiopia and Hobokun, N. J., yet to be heard from.

"This will be a real world championship," insists Mr. Hannagan, acidly implying that most world championships are just so many shirred eggs with bacon. "The winner of this race will be worthy of world wide acclaim."

Theoretically Mr. Hannagan is correct. There are some who say this is as close to being correct as Mr. Hannagan ever gets but why quibble over problem being what they are.

Of more importance is the rather solid promise that this year's 300 will be a real race with real competition and real excitement. If this turns out to be so, the race will be superior to the 1936 inaugural on all three counts. The 1936 race was, next to the collapse of the Red Sox, the prize bust of the year.

Course Is Designed To Furnish High Speeds

To begin with, the racing course was designed to frustrate speed, rather than accelerate it. The unidentified genius who plotted the course was probably the same gent who proposed iron life preservers for ocean liners. Anyway the general rationalism was just about the same.

Signor Tazio Nuvolari, a Mussolini blackshirt, won the race with an average speed of 65 miles an hour. The pioneers did better time in their covered wagons against the wind. The primary appeal of a speed race is speed and when the drivers dawdled around the track like so many bored turtles the customers got up and left.

They weren't any too pleased at the knowledge they had been overcharged either. The same unidentified genius had the idea the more money he charged the more customers he'd get. This led to the suspicion he was an old prize fight promoter but the libel was never substantiated. Anyway the prices ran from $3.50 for steerage to $27.50 for first class cabin, deck chairs extra.

"All this has been changed," beams Mr. Hannagan, the Celtic mouthpiece for the management. "This year the track has been made into a real racing strip and the prices scaled down to a point where they are within the reach of every one." It should be noted, however, a good long reach is still desirable.

Showmen Ignored Advice Of Practical Racing Men

What happened last year was that a group of persons who imagined themselves to be both promoters and showmen had charge of the affair and chose to ignore the advice of practical racing men with promotional backgrounds. The messy result has been gently outlined above. Then contemporary changes were effected by persons more interested in putting on a good show before a packed house than taking bows in the glossy set of a test.

The first thing the racing realists did was to apply a generous spread of common sense arnica to the numerous kinks in the writing course. Thus nine of these kinks were quickly eliminated. The effect on greater speed was automatic. Already in the qualifying trials the drivers are going 20 miles an hour faster than Nuvolari's winning time a year ago. And the next thing the racing realists did was to slash prices. General admission is down to a buck and a half. That would be cheap even for a private.

There was another unsatisfactory feature about last year's race. The American drivers couldn't get off first base. This couldn't be blamed on the management. The fact is the American drivers aren't likely to get off first base this year, either. Their cars just aren't built for this type of speed racing whereas the European cars are built especially for it.

The historic 500 at Indianapolis is the speed classic of America. This is run over a continuous two and a half mile course in the form of a bowl. The Roosevelt raceway, even with nine turns amputated, is still a twisting, curving, bending thing much more suited to European cars than American cars.

The race Saturday, then, promises to be more a test of special motors than special drivers. And when Mr. Hannagan says this is a real world championship he is merely doing a Bing Crosby for the innocent little starlings in the tree tops. It is a real world championship for road racers — and America has no road racers. If an American finishes as well as third—you can even make it fifth—he will be doing better than all right.

Actually the race shapes up as a re-run of the European championship with an American locale. Not that this should make it any less interesting except that it is always nice to see the home reds in there with a chance. You know how we patriots are. Our country right or wrong — or is it more proper these days to say right or left?

The day after Wilbur Shaw won the 500 in record smashing time at Indianapolis he told me he had no enthusiasm for the 300 at Roosevelt raceway. "If I enter it will be just a gesture to help stimulate interest in auto racing. I don't figure to have a chance. Nor does any other American driver. Our cars aren't built for that kind of a test." And this on the basis of his victory in the 500 was America's greatest driver talking.

File Petitions Opposing Use of Parking Meters

Ask That Council Consider Them at First Opportunity

Petitions objecting to installation of parking meters and signed by a majority of business men on College avenue were filed today with City Clerk Carl Becher by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

Installation of parking meters on College avenue between Durkee and Superior streets for a trial period of six months was recently approved by the common council. At a later meeting of the retail division of the chamber of commerce the members unanimously opposed parking meters. Petitions were then circulated by a number of business men among their associates.

The letter to the city clerk reads in part:

"Careful inspection of these petitions indicate the almost unanimous opposition to the installation of meters. We would like to have you present these petitions to the mayor and common council at your first opportunity."

The council will hold an adjourned meeting Wednesday evening to act on license applications, and the parking meter problem may be brought before the council at that time.

Letter Describes Intimidation in Campaign of CIO

Tells of What Happens Before 'Election' of Bargaining Group

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — When the words "collective bargaining" and "employee elections" came prominently into the vocabulary of the day it was popularly supposed that workmen would attain a freedom of choice as to whether they wished to belong to unions and, moreover, that, if they joined, they would have something to say about the union's affairs, especially those it spent the dues collected from members.

Without disparaging in any sense the many fine unions which exist in this country which have developed responsible leadership and accountability for funds used, the searchlight of public scrutiny might well be turned on just how some of the CIO unions are winning their so-called "victories" which the headlines tell about as "elections" are held.

The other day a headline in a New York newspaper proclaimed: "CIO Union Wins Bus Company Vote. Transport workers get right to bargain, 1,249 to 356."

Back of that election is an interesting story which is no doubt duplicated in many another election. Before the poll was taken among the bus company employees, this correspondent received a letter which speaks for itself in describing what happens before a CIO "election":

Describes "Election"

"My father started to write a letter to you but asked me to do it for him. So here goes: My father was a motorman for several years in New York and when buses came in the west to a school of the company and now drives a bus. He never had any trouble because he isn't the sort of man who makes any. To tell the truth, he is a saint and right now he is being battered by devils, if you ask me. The men who are getting up the transport workers union, which is called CIO, are chasing him and calling him a scab after all these years. Even men who have been with the company ten or fifteen years are afraid to talk among themselves about whether to join the union or why not to, for they are scared silly.

"The thing is that my father and his family are just barely getting by good after lots of trouble. They're asking him (and threatening him, too, every day) because he hates to sign up with an organization that has no constitution, by-laws or rules yet, and you can't tell what it is going to cost to go in or stay in, or whether there'll be any sick benefits or anything. (He's been sick twice in recent years and got good benefits right away from the employees' association of the company, and they loaned him money last year and have treated him good.)

"Now these organizers for the transport workers union are always talking about 'knocking off' the company and, although no body ever saw them before, they are calling some of the best men and drivers of the company 'lousy scabs' and are just doing everything their own way.

Won't Answer Questions

"When my father, right here in our house, wanted to have some idea whether there would be death benefits or sick benefits, or when, or whether the money collected would just be used to make strikes in other places, and how much he would have to pay to get in and for dues afterward, they said 'what's it to you, fellow?' My mother fainted away. She's been sick anyway.

"We all think it's terrible and so do about ten or twelve other families of fine men, who have with the company a long time. They all say that men of the transport union in New York did not know how much it was going to charge or what it was going to give the men. There is no way this union can tell what it has to pay to the big CIO committee and no one can do anything about it.

"The other night some old employees of the company called at our house to talk over what to do. They have been coming here for years and, still and all, they were talking in whispers, scared to death to talk over their own business. Three of them said they would never sign for something they knew nothing about, even if they were killed. Several of these papers were left, papers that were given them by the union, but only one of the 'certificates of application' which is my father's. I have copied it just as it is to show how uncertain it all is.

"Maybe you already have heard all this, but mother said it might be news to you. Please do not even use my initials in discussing it."

Fought Amendment

Small wonder that the CIO wins elections, it will be said, and yet, if the union leaders don't think kind of intimidation and coercion exists, then why, it will also be asked by innocent bystanders, did they object to an amendment to the Wagner act which forbade coercion not only by employers but "from any source?"

Examining the "certificate of affiliation" which the motor transport union obtained from the CIO and copy of which was left with the worker by an organizer, one finds the vaguest kind of language. It says:

"This certificate is granted subject to the constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations that may be adopted by the Committee for Industrial Organization or a national convention composed of delegates representing associated organizations."

Here the worker is asked to join a union which itself signs a blank check agreeing to abide by whatever a national committee on which it cannot possibly have representation may prescribe. For it will be noted that the local union must agree to whatever regulations are stipulated in the future.

More interesting, however, is the membership application which the employee is asked to sign in the transport workers union. It says among other things: "I will abide by the constitution and laws of the organization and pay all dues and other obligations promptly."

Yet no constitution or by-laws or details of its own organization or of its affiliated parent body, the CIO, were given the applicant.

Workers Menaced

In the face of such dictatorial requirements, employees were threatened and coerced into signing the application blanks. The wonder is that as many as 256 out of the 1605 employees who participated in the "election" had the nerve to defy the menace of the strong-arm organizers who besieged their homes.

Where can citizens in plight get protection? Can they get it from the state of New York? Can they get it from a national administration which accepts financial contributions for its campaigns from the CIO and today is still indebted for a loan of $50,000 to the CIO?

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan has just proposed some amendments to the Wagner labor act, amendments which Senator Wagner of New York has hitherto refused to accept. These amendments would forbid the coercion of workers in making them join unions and would prohibit compulsory political assessments on union members.

The citizens have redress, of course, at the polls in November, 1938, when candidates for congress will be up for election or reelection and when the big issue before the country, ironically enough, may be the right to work. Heretofore the emphasis has been on the right to strike or the right to organize. These two rights have been granted by law, but the most important of all—the right to work—is now menaced by groups of leaders who refuse to state in writing what benefits will accrue to the members and what will be done with their dues and yet maintain a system of organized coercion to win "elections" under the right of "collective bargaining" which is more and more becoming known as "collective bludgeoning."

State Engineers Will Investigate Flood Conditions

Highway Department Will Cooperate to Extent of Responsibility

New London—State highway engineers from Wisconsin Rapids will come to New London to investigate flood conditions, the Wisconsin State Highway commission decided this morning following a hearing at the New London city hall. Thomas F. Davlin, commission chairman, said the state committee would cooperate to the extent of its responsibility in any program to relieve the flood conditions. The hearing was called to hear complaints that the construction of Highway 54 had aggravated flood conditions. However, Davlin said this morning that the hearing had not brought out enough evidence to warrant immediate action.

Commissioners recognized that original plans for Highway 54 had included provisions for cleaning out of the floodway course. Robert M. Connelly, Outagamie county surveyor, suggested two plans of relieving the flood conditions. Connelly said construction of two bridges or cleaning out of the floodway course would eliminate all or most of the conditions. Others who spoke at the hearing were C. J. Schoid, a farmer living near New London, Ormond Capener, an attorney, representing a number of farmers who signed a petition asking for relief of the flood conditions and Curt Rogers, chairman of the town of Liberty.

Giles H. Putnam, New London city attorney and secretary of the Liberty Drainage district, also spoke during the hearing. The Outagamie county highway committee arrived after the hearing was concluded. Two other members of the state highway group, E. L. Roettiger, Madison, an engineer, and Roy Empey, divisional engineer, also attended.

Appleton Boy May Enter West Point

Edgar Milhaupt Has Chance When Two Others Fail

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—An Appleton boy, Edgar Milhaupt, Jr., 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Milhaupt, Sr., 710 E. Franklin street, is expected to be a member of the entering class at the United States Military academy at West Point on July 1. Milhaupt is a graduate of Appleton High school and spent a year at the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Milhaupt was second alternate in the list of appointees of Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton, and if he gets to the academy at this time it would be largely due to a series of "breaks." Edward C. Denzin of Marinette, principal, failed in his mental examinations by just one point. That made the first alternate, Arthur Makholm of Suring the candidate. Makholm passed his mental examinations but failed in the physical examination. Results of Milhaupt's physical examination are not yet known but Representative Schneider is expecting to learn them any moment.

Entrance date is July 1, but under unusual circumstances such as this, Schneider said, a new student is allowed to be a little late in arriving at the academy. Schneider also announced today that another appointee, William Doyle Pratt of Casco, will enter West Point on Thursday, July 1. He is the son of Major Elgen C. Pratt and was appointed to succeed Robert F. Hudka of Manitowish, resigned.

4.251 Registered for U. W. Summer Session

Madison—Classes of the University of Wisconsin summer session started today with a student registration slightly smaller than last year.

Registrar Curtis Merriman said 4,251 persons had enrolled at the end of the regular registration period yesterday. The total on the corresponding date in 1936 was 4,307.

Late arrivals will be registered, however, for the remainder of the week. The session lasts six weeks. The 1929 enrollment of 5,200 was the highest ever recorded.

This year's general enrollment figure does not include 45 attending the workers' schools, nearly 100 enrolled in the rural leadership school, and those participating in a two-week speech and drama institute.

It Is Said--

THAT J. J. Reeder, actuary of the Aid Association for Lutherans, found himself in a rather embarrassing predicament yesterday when a tire on his car went flat while he was driving on Michigan boulevard, Chicago, during a rush hour. An obliging motorist in the end lane stopped to permit Reeder to drive his car from the traffic line onto the sidewalk to change the tire.

That wedding pictures in a glass case on College avenue almost proved the downfall of a babe in a carriage this morning. The mother had become engrossed in the nuptial photographs and neglected the carriage which began to roll toward the street. With a shriek, the mother cringed as the buggy and its wheels went over the curb.

The fire department was called out twice last night to extinguish minor blazes causing little damage. Hearing Friday On Plea to Slash Pulpwood Freight

Commission Says Future of Industry in State Is At Stake

Madison—(7)—The public service commission will hold a hearing in Madison next Friday which, it said, involves the future of Wisconsin's paper-making industry, fourth largest in the state.

The hearing concerns an application for reduction of freight rates on pulpwood.

With nearby wood supplies depleted, the 26 paper mills operating in Wisconsin say they cannot compete with mills in the south and the west unless freight rates are lowered to permit them to ship in pulpwood from other regions.

Tentatively, the commission has agreed to lower rates, but will withhold putting an order into effect until Friday's hearing is concluded.

Freight charges are a substantial part of the cost of pulpwood. Wisconsin mills contend they will have to ship over two or more railroad lines, involving joint rates considerably higher than those in effect on single-line hauls.

The commission said the present level of joint rates has driven much of the pulpwood movement to trucks.

"The record indicates," it said, "that there has been some curtailment in the production of wood pulp in Wisconsin and that the mills are operating at about 75 per cent of normal capacity due to the large amount of wood pulp being imported from foreign countries and which is sold in Wisconsin at a price lower than the Wisconsin manufacturer can produce it."

"Any curtailment of wood pulp production in Wisconsin results in a loss of business to the Wisconsin producer and a subsequent loss in tonnage to the railroads as well."

Report Is Issued on Lower Utility Bills

Washington—(17)—The federal power commission reported Monday residential consumers of electricity in 126 cities, including Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha, Wis., benefited from lower bills during the year starting in January, 1936, compared with the previous year.

Madison, Wis., which has the lowest typical monthly bill for electricity in the state, showed no change.

Reductions of the average bill in the 126 cities studied, the commission reported, resulted from lower rates made by 85 utilities, of which 92.6 per cent are privately owned.

Madison, with a typical monthly bill of $1.17 for 25 kilowatt hour service, ranked ninth among communities of 50,000 to 100,000 population. It headed the list for 100 kilowatt hour service with the lowest bill of $2.73 and fifth for 250 kilowatt hour service for which the typical monthly bill was $5.60.

The MILWAUKEE ROAD

Under The Capitol Dome

By John Wyngaard
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent

Madison—The perennial assembly challenge to the senate for a baseball game was offered and adopted amid whoops of boyish enthusiasm in the lower house last week.

Messrs. Fitzsimmons of Fond du Lac, Democrat, Alfonsi of Pence, Progressive, and Thomson of Richland Center, drew up the challenge as a formal resolution and had it "spread" upon the house journal.

As a result posterity will find on the legislative records of 1937 a document as follows:

"Whereas recent actions of the senate would indicate a reviving youthful spirit among its members, and

"Whereas, the mental and physical superiority of the assembly over that of the so-called upper house has been so often demonstrated on the baseball field and elsewhere, and

"Whereas, the people of our fair state demand an attempted comeback on the part of the senate even though such effort may be at the inconvenience of some of the thirty-three 'old men', and

"Whereas, 'What is so rare as a day in June', when the balmy atmosphere of a mid-day sun tends to break down all barriers between the lowly and unassuming and the would-be high and mighty and the same time lubricates the squeaky joints and heals the aching bodies of the aged and decrepit; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved by the assembly, that this body hereby challenge the senate to a baseball game at such time and place as may be determined by conference committees of the respective houses, the game to be played in accordance with and pursuant to such reasonable rules and regulations as may be consistent with the time-honored game of baseball, except that in lieu of regulation bats the senators may use paddles, and be it further,

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forthwith transmitted to the senate, and be it still further

"Resolved and suggested, that the senators go in training at once against the day of their coming defeat and humiliation at the hands of a charitable assembly."

They tell this story on Assemblyman William Rohan, plain spoken farmer-legislator from Kaukauna: Congressman Thomas O'Malley of Milwaukee was visiting in the assembly on a day when the Wisconsin Development authority, or the "little TVA" bill was scheduled for consideration. Chatting with his Democratic friends in the house, O'Malley suggested that they vote for the measure because it had President Roosevelt's support, that the President had offered similar legislation in Congress. "Then why are you here," asked Rohan. "Why aren't you in Washington helping to pass that legislation?" Rohan has been one of the most consistent opponents of the WDA bill.

Assemblyman Felix Kremer of Price county has been a practicing lawyer, district attorney, county judge, and now assemblyman in his district. He has argued the law, prosecuted and enforced the law, applied and interpreted the law, and is now making the law, he says and has no more ambitions for public office.

Some of the ultra-liberal and pro-labor members of the legislature encountered some difficulties in finding eating places last week during the restaurant strike in the capital city. Some of them were forced to pass by their favorite cafes because they were being picketed, and a member of the governor's staff related that a party of leading Progressives rode around the city for two hours one evening to find a place not being picketed.

Judge Joseph Martin of Green Bay accommodated perspiring newspapermen last week by pointing out the significant points in the pile of opinions handed down by the state supreme court as that tribunal wound up its calendar and departed for a summer vacation.

The possibilities of the publication of guidebooks for individual Wisconsin cities was seen this week as J. J. Lyons, director of the state guide project, now nearing completion, reported that several cities have already made requests for such books. Lyons said that after the completion of the state book, new WPA projects for city books may be begun.

Joseph Davies, U. S. ambassador to Russia, and Madison and Waterloo lawyer, recently had his New York counsel telephone Palmer F. Davies, Jefferson county assemblyman, for additional copies of the assembly resolution congratulating him on his appointment to the Moscow embassy.

Ambassador Davies is a close friend of Assemblyman Daus's father, who was a Democratic county leader when Davies ran for district attorney 35 years ago.

Conflicting pictures of the economic condition of the Fox River valley area were given in legislative discussions during the week. During the hearing on the public welfare reorganization bill, when city and county board representatives argued that the state must furnish from 70 to 80 per cent of local relief expenditures, one speaker told the joint committee holding the hearing that the Fox River Valley counties are being pinched financially by the relief loads of the past few years.

A few days later, Senator Phil Nelson of Maple, arguing for the need of relief appropriations for the northern counties who are facing bankruptcy, pointed to the industrial Fox River valley as "one of the richest and most prosperous sections of Wisconsin."

Recent reports indicate that two prominent Progressives have a hopeful eye on the first district senate seat now held by John E. Cashman of Denmark. If Senator Cashman tries for Congress again, it is said, Assemblyman David Sigman and Everett LaFond, leader of the Lake Michigan commercial fishermen, both of Two Rivers, will be in the field.

31 Dams Turned Over to Badger Municipalities

Madison—(17)—The state public service commission announced Monday 31 dams, constructed under the works progress administration at a total cost of $1,052,000, have been turned over to the municipalities which sponsored them.

All but $81,000 of the total was provided by the federal government, the commission said, the smaller sum having been contributed by the communities in 24 counties—Burnett, Douglas, Washburn, Price, Sawyer, Eau Claire, Forest, Iron, Barron, Rusk, Vilas, Waushara, Clark, Oconto, Trempealeau,

Wood, Door, Dunn, Juneau, Monroe, Richland, Washington, Langlade and Dane.

The dams were constructed mainly to revive drying lakes and to eliminate undesirable water conditions, the commission said.

Vatinius, a cobbler of Beneventum and favorite of Nero, was reputed by the ancients to have the biggest nose in human history.

"ROMANTIC UPPER CLASS AMATEURS"

The President is a bitter pill to many of the leading liberals of the country. And nowhere has a truer appraisal been made of him and his policies than by Mr. Lippmann, for long the liberal editor of the equally liberal New York World.

In a recent article upon the labor situation and the abominable way in which the Administration has handled it, Mr. Lippmann wrote:

"If the President is a real friend of labor, not merely one of those romantic upper class amateurs who mislead the labor movement by condoning and idealizing its vices, he will make these raw workers feel that his influence is not merely friendly but firm and restraining as well."

Mr. Lippmann, a highly practical man, has noted a tendency upon the part of "romantic upper class amateurs" to dip into the labor movement as though a diploma from Yale or Harvard qualified them to settle all the grievances of the men with calloused hands.

They have often done this in a highly patronizing manner toward the worker, trying at the same time to pat him on the shoulder and say "Nice boy." It is a fine thing in this country to see that the conditions in which one may find himself in life do not prevent him from intermingling with those who find themselves living under different conditions. Yet it is but evidence of the Little Lord Fauntleroy myth that a Park Avenue debutante or a scion of the royal blood is helping matters out with parlor ideas of labor. They are apt to forget that the dishes are never washed in the parlor.

Likewise they follow the general course pursued by the President, of standing back of the least capable and roughest elements in the labor movement, and protecting them at almost every turn of the road, little knowing that such elements could not be depended upon for anything constructive or enduring.

Mr. Lippmann did not charge that the President himself is "one of those romantic upper class amateurs" although he is certainly surrounded by a bevy of them.

$12,000 FOR FLOWERS

Perhaps the expenditure of $12,000 by the great state of Wisconsin that spends so many millions in of little consequence. But when the legislature of Wisconsin appropriates money directly to establish a chair of Gaelic at the university, a university that is simply crowded with chairs of various sorts and lots of them about as useless as Gaelic, you begin to see the reason why the small colleges are always forging ahead of the great universities in the class of quality of service they give.

It was said that the bill was passed because of the influence in the legislature of men of Irish blood. That, no doubt, is largely true, but it must be coupled always with the tragic history of a country whose people were willing to die in droves over a period of centuries rather than surrender their right of self-government. Thus the $12,000 expenditure is a compliment, and a pretty one, but it could have been more usefully spent than in the manner designated.

The President of the University says there is no demand from students for such a course and that the University "may have a $12,000 chair and no one to listen to it."

The faculty of gestures of this sort should be apparent. No such act should ever have been passed excepting upon the recommendation and with the advice and consent of the faculty, those men employed by the state at considerable expense for the purpose of guiding its educational affairs.

IRWIN AND THE HIDDEN DANGER

Irwin, just apprehended, the killer of three against whom he didn't even have a grievance, is the day's example of the demented praetor victim permitted to roam the streets long after he had given ample evidence to the authorities that his departure upon a crime debauch was only a matter of time.

According to some medical authorities Mr. Irwin is a lunatic, a mad man, and according to all authorities he is one of the most sinister figures that could be imagined. He does not mumble as he walks the street. Rather has he an engaging manner. No insanity is perceivable in his eyes excepting upon occasions when he is thwarted in some purpose, perhaps a trivial purpose, but to him a matter of life and death, and then he strikes horribly, without pity or reflection, and without rhyme or reason, but always with a cunning that is likely to make men believe him sane.

The Irwin sort carries further increased risk because no one is on guard for a tempestuous rage when there is no adequate reason for even anger. This fact plus the mild appearance of the killer increases his ability for havoc at all times.

So long as appearances and sentiment hold sway or substantially control the opening and closing of prison or asylum doors we must expect to meet many like Irwin on the streets.

JOHN L. LEWIS AND GYPSY ROSE LEE

There is similarity in many respects between the recent career of Mr. Lewis and that of the outstanding striptease artist.

Some years ago one Minsky found himself in possession of a burlesque theatre in New York with the people bored to death at the slapstick standard then prevailing.

It is not clear whether Minsky got his inspiration through a shot in the arm or whether he dreamt it but he is credited with putting the striptease artist into business in a big way, and certainly he packed his burlesque theatre until he branched out with several more. From that start the craze spread to and infected the country.

When participants were arrested for indecency they called for jury trials and won hands down at every turn. The jurors seemed to think the cops were old meanies for interfering when the boys were having some fun and the girls were getting careless.

But all at once there was as significant a change in public attitude as in the temperature when a feverish day is closed by a cooling shower.

It was America's second thought that closed the Minskys and has been convicting their satellites all over the country.

For on second thought Americans realized that the affair was no joke but had become demoralizing to public decency and degrading to the people.

Mr. Lewis started out with as popular an act as Gypsy Rose Lee. At least he had most of the boys with him.

He publicized the fact that he practically controlled the President of the United States. This was a 10 strike and most shamelessly was it pushed.

He bawled and threatened, he cursed and belittled. By and by people began to get a little tired of that. Even the President seemed to have his stomach full.

But Mr. Lewis, unbalanced by his tremendous power, plunged on to even more desperate and violent measures.

At last he threatened a general strike. That was about the end of the public's patience. People know that a general strike is not a strike at all. It is civil war, nothing more, nothing less.

It is America's second thought that is frustrating Mr. Lewis and making his adherents desert by the thousands. It is America's realization that this man and his movement are wholly unnecessary, conceived in sin, and brought forth in rebellion against the majority of his own associates.

And so Mr. Lewis will have to go the way of Gypsy Rose Lee unless he gets as smart as the young woman and reforms. Men of his prodigious energy and vitality have a place in the world, an important place, but not as a despot in America.

Mr. Lewis has used remarkably poor judgment in many instances, picking quarrels where there was no reason for controversy, attempting to organize plants like Ford, Republic and others, where he knew the overwhelming majority were against him, wanted nothing of him, and would only accept him after the sting of lash or the burn of the bullet.

Gypsy Rose Lee performed a useful service in American life. She awoke us to the fact that the people are really soundly moral, and that the tawdry, the brazen and the indecent are bound to sicken in the long run.

By the same token Mr. Lewis has performed a public service. He has shown the nation how sound and true and fair and dependable its people really are, and how instinctively they revolt and fight against a straitjacket or strong arm methods.

EQUILIBRIUM, BUT WHERE?

According to the treasury's latest estimates, federal revenues for the next fiscal year, beginning next July 1, will reach the unprecedented total of $7,000,000,000. This is even greater than the record figures of 1930, when the war boom and emergency war taxation produced only $6,700,000,000. Such revenues will insure balancing of the budget we are told by the treasury.

Obviously, this will permit the balancing of the budget. But that is not the problem. Nobody doubted that the budget could be balanced in a reasonable time, once recovery set in. The real problem is to determine the level which equilibrium shall be established. The question of the treasury announcement, subject to the president's approval, is that we should achieve an equilibrium at the level of seven billions. This is a gross expenditure roughly 75 per cent higher than that of the banner year 1923.

Now, it was to be expected that there would be some permanent increase of federal expenditure after the depression. Government has taken on numerous functions hitherto unknown, many of these at the insistence of the public. These involve new outlays each year above

TO A YOUNG MAN ON A BICYCLE

IT WAS dark when you came down that arterial street one evening late last week and yet you were riding full blast, standing up on the pedals and pumping hard. I know you were going fast because I used to have a bicycle of my own and I could get a lot of speed out of it that way.

You were not equipped with a light on your bike, either, and so, unless someone else's lights shone directly on you, you were lost in the gloom. Just the same, you were going full tilt down the arterial toward the corner that carries a great deal of intersecting traffic.

I was approaching that corner along about then and I had stopped at the arterial. The stop was more than momentary because a car was approaching and I had to let it pass before starting up again. You could see my lights as I waited there and you could, if you had looked, seen that the way was clear for me to go ahead. If you would stop to think about it now, you would realize that I had every legal right to go ahead because you were operating without a light and were not visible.

None of those thoughts entered your head, however, as you sped down the street, and so it was that you flashed directly in front of my car just as I was starting up in low gear.

Now, a car in low gear has plenty of power pulling it, and the rate of acceleration is fast. The driver's mental attitude is that of wanting to go ahead after having stopped.

So, all things considered, it is easy to see how you, going full tilt on a bicycle and I, starting a car up in low gear, could have done a very thorough job of colliding. The damage would have been largely on your side. Either you would have crashed directly into the side of my car, or I would have driven into you as you rode into the path I was travelling. It was all a matter of split seconds.

As it was, you appeared from out of nowhere—a blur of boy-on-bicycle who seemed to be almost under my front wheels. In that fleeting second my foot jammed on the brake pedal. The car squealed to a stop and you skinned by the bumper with not more than an inch or two separating you from disaster.

I saw your white face turned back as you rode on down the street, but I don't think that your face was much whiter than mine nor did your heart pound any harder. Your reflexes, highly developed by much bicycle riding, had caused you to swerve—you were going too fast to turn or stop—and my reflexes, developed by years of driving, had sent my foot kicking on the brake pedal just as I would blink my eyes if someone suddenly waved a hand in front of them.

That was all that saved you and your bike from catastrophe.

And perhaps all that saved me from becoming an involuntary killer.

Think about that the next time you ride your bike at night.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

A BLIND FRIEND'S GARDEN

There is no garden in this world
 Where she may walk when morning comes,
 To see the purple flax unfurled,
 And pick the blue delphiniums.

She cannot greet the saucy birds,
 Or watch the zephyr blowing leaves;
 But she can scatter golden words,
 And harvest lovely harmonies.

She does not gather a bouquet
 Of crimson roses, beaming blind,
 She only cultivates each day
 The beauteous garden of her mind.

And we, who love her, gather flowers—
 They give us strength, in troubled hours,
 White prayers and thoughts so fair and sweet—
 To bear our sorrow and defeat!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, June 28, 1927

Seven members of the Appleton Yacht club took part in the motor boat race held as a special feature of the club picnic Sunday at Gmeiner's grove. The race was won by Rudolph Foster, with second place going to Leo Schroeder, Henry Schroeder and Harry Quella tied for honors in the canoe race.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Berstrom will entertain 200 guests at their home on E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, tonight. The early part of the evening will be devoted to a piano recital by Alvin Morris, a pupil of Arthur Shattuck. This will be followed by dancing.

Thomas G. Roberts, 34, died Monday night in New London. He was cashier of the Bank of New London and prominent in civic affairs.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, July 2, 1912

Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey that day won the Democratic nomination for president on the forty-sixth ballot taken at the national convention in Baltimore. He received 890 votes to 84 for Clark and 12 for Harmon.

Four school board members were elected at district school meetings the previous evening as follows: First district, Paul V. Cary; Second district, Dr. G. E. Johnson; Third district, H. A. Schmitz; and Fourth district, Robert Hackworth.

Miss Lulu Kline, route 4, Appleton, and George Gannon, Center, were married the previous evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Oscar Schmidt.

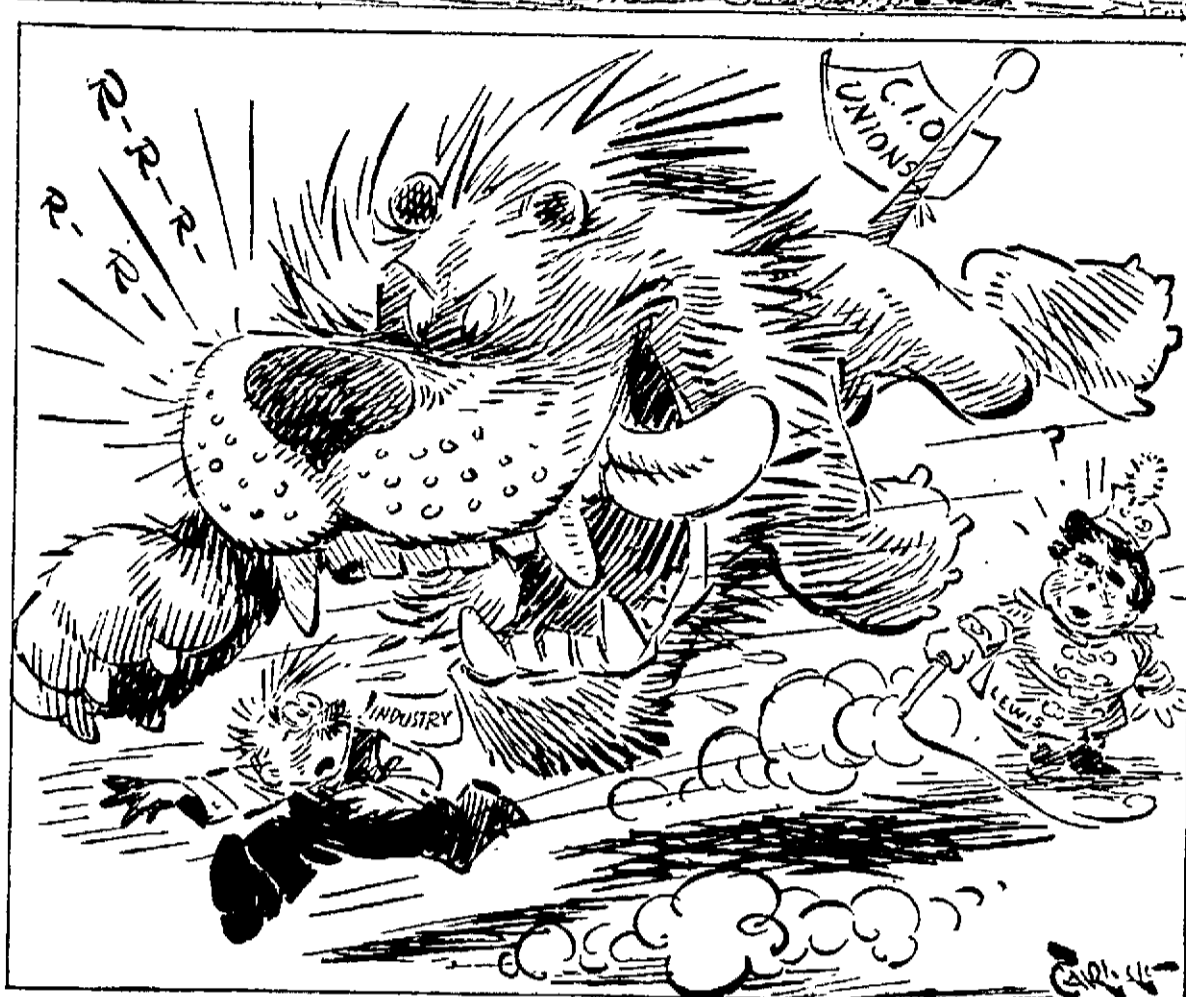

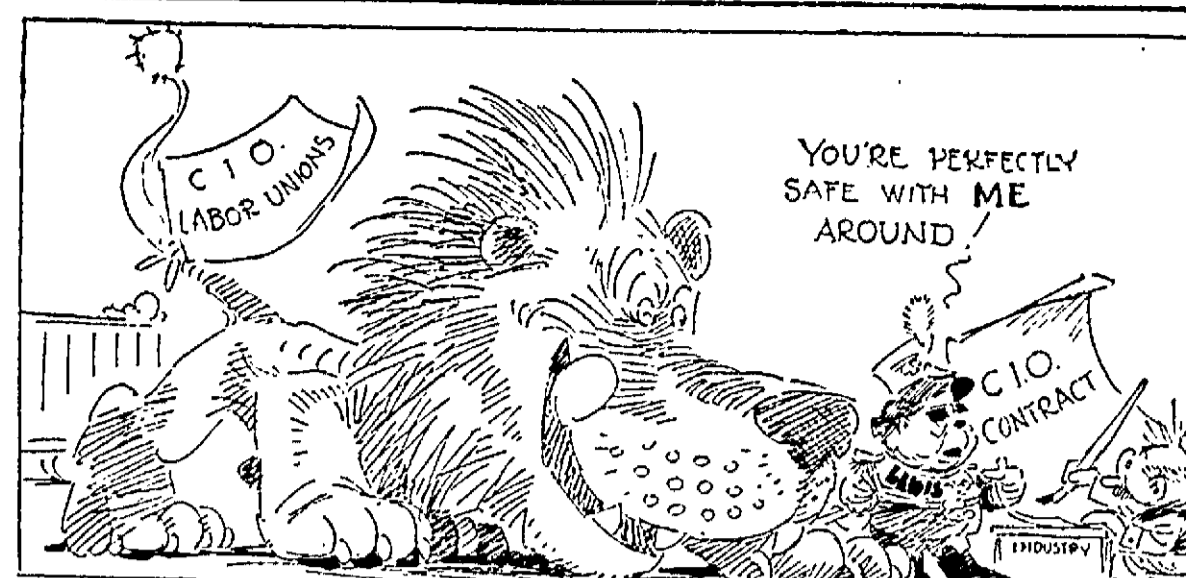

Miss Caroline Huber, Black Creek, and Charles Hanks, Eagle River, were married June 26 at Eagle River.

Miss Martha Heekie, Appleton, and Dr. Archibald W. Downey, Spokane, Wash., were married that morning at St. Joseph's Catholic church.

those of predepression years. But it certainly does not follow that the federal government should continue as a policy to spend 75 per cent more than it did before the depression. Price changes cannot explain any of the difference. For prices are still lower than in 1929.

Only one conclusion is possible, namely, that the balancing of the budget, not later than the fiscal year 1937-1938, should be achieved by a combined policy of maintaining tax rates sufficiently to insure larger revenues and of reducing expenditure. A clear statement in this vein from the White house would be appropriate and beneficial in its economic effects.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WANTED—A GOOD LION TAMER

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
 Noted Physician and Author

THE TEACHER WITH UNULANT FEVER

Correspondent asked "Would you advise employing a school teacher who has undulant fever?" Reasons for or against? Answer printed in this column. "No. The terms of the disease may be given off for eight or ten months after the onset of the illness."

This brought a protest from the wife of a man who has had undulant fever for three years. She would like to know my authority for "stating unconditionally that the disease is contagious for 8 or 10 months following onset."

I have never "stated unconditionally" that undulant fever is contagious at any time or stage. There is still considerable uncertainty about the mode of infection with undulant fever (also called Malta fever, Texas fever, Mediterranean fever), and until we know positively how the disease is contracted we cannot conscientiously say that a person who has it or who has recently recovered from it may be employed in any capacity which involves more or less intimate contact with other persons.

Nor can we honestly assure the public that one will not get undulant fever if one drinks raw milk. Undulant fever is more frequently seen in persons employed as handlers of goats, cattle, swine; it is comparatively uncommon in infants and young children who are the chief consumers of milk.

Competent investigators who have studied undulant fever say that the germ may be discharged in the urine from twenty to three hundred days after the onset of the illness. They believe an insect may be concerned as the carrier of the infection.

Only subsidized experts, if you know what that means, are cocksure about the cause and prevention of undulant fever. For that matter, one has to make due allowance for the subsidy that inspires much of our present-day "science."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Young Man's Rest

I am 21, happily married nine months. Husband, 27, has his own meat market and grocery store. He works up at quarter to five every morning, and he gets seldom more than six hours sleep. (Mrs. F. W. W.)

Answer—A young man can live that pace for a while, but not for long. He needs at least eight hours sleep each night, and if he does the actual work in the shop he needs at least nine hours sleep.

Calcium
 I have been taking dicalcium phosphate tablets, each containing nine grains calcium phosphate and 6 grains calcium gluconate and 660 units vitamin D. How do these tablets compare with the calcium content of milk? (Mrs. A. S.)

Answer—A quart of milk contains approximately 20 grains of calcium. In any opinion plain milk or cheese, say cottage cheese, is superior to any medicinal form of calcium or phosphorus. There is more calcium (lime) in milk than in lime water, for example. The organic or inorganic phosphorus and calcium in milk or cheese is probably more suitable for human nutrition than is any medicinal preparation containing calcium or phosphorus.

Blemishes
 Please tell me something good for blemishes. My face is a sight. (Miss H. P.)

Answer—Probably you mean pimples and blackheads, oily skin, acne. If so, send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for treatment of acne blackheads.

Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address: Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino South, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Your Birthday

"CANCER"

If June 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m., and from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45, from 3:45 to 5:45 p. m., and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m.

Do not depend on others to do things for you this day. Results will come only through your efforts. Figures may not "lie," but if carelessly set down, added, or manipulated they can cause a great deal of trouble this day. Accountants, bookkeepers, and cashiers, will have to use caution, if mistakes are to be avoided. A disclosure is likely to be made that will be very gratifying to you, and perhaps profitable. Social errors, through inattention, are apt to occur, so it is advisable when in company to keep mentally alert. This should be an auspicious day for furthering pet schemes, as well as asking favors. Married and engaged couples, and those who are in love will show good judgment in not teasing, for it is liable to have a decidedly irritating affect this day.

If a woman and June 30 is your birthday, you have, most likely, a decidedly attractive personality. You cannot tolerate restraint, and usually do what you please, regardless of the opinion of others. The day, however, you will travel a great deal. Although you have a depth of feeling, you more or less conceal it, which is, perhaps, a mistake. In club, church, or social activities you probably always will take a leading part, as you are not likely to be satisfied in being one of the rank and file. Money seems to play an important part in the lives of those born on this date, so through your own efforts, by inheritance or marriage you may enjoy its benefits. Possibly as a writer, teacher, artist, singer, entertainer, dancer or store manager you will win an enviable reputation. Every aspect surrounding your matrimonial prospects appears to be favorable.

The child born on June 30 is generally a sturdy, independent youngster, fully capable of paddling its own canoe. Upon reaching its majority it will find many opportunities, and the chances are it will select the one that will enable it to make both a name and a fortune.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—One of the better known younger novelists was telling a luncheon club how the editor of a magazine, by wielding the blue-pencil, had abused his brain effort. The story, when it appeared, was so raggedly edited that he was trying to make up his mind to sue. "What I would like to do," he concluded bitterly, "is punch his jaw."

Just then a quiet-spoken fellow stood up and nodded agreeably. "Any time you say, old man," the editor, it seems, had wandered into the club just in time to hear the blast.

There used to be a marionette in a Broadway shop-window that captivated everybody who saw it, but I haven't seen it in nearly a year. The doll drew pictures of well-known celebrities, and if you stood there long enough it was apt to sketch your own likeness.

The way it worked? An artist concealed beneath the window had a perfect view of the crowd through a trick mirror. That is, he could see you but you couldn't see him. All he did was make sketches on a pad, and a mechanical device, transmitted through a pencil in the doll's hand, reproduced the sketches on a large sheet in the windows. It was all very exciting to see for the first time.

The huge drills and trip-hammers which disturb the night over on the east side are leaving a fine lot of insomnia in the apartment houses along that sector. They're working on a tunnel and night-vision is an opportunity to make rapid headway to say nothing of headaches. Visitors and guests find it almost impossible to sleep, but the long-time residents say you get used to it after awhile. "Why let it get on your nerves?" they say. "There is just as much noise in the day time. Only, then, you aren't conscious of it."

An actor playing a bit in one of the summer dramas has to change clothes three times during the play. The other night his dinner jacket practically gave out and the manager advised him to get a new one. Not being in the chips, he hot-footed it over to one of the loan offices and pawned his watch for a few bucks and then looked about for a tux. He found one for $3, but when the manager clunged it he shook his head savagely and yelled, "Well, I'll need you one, but you can't wear that thing." The jacket the actor had obtained was of the 1890 variety. "S' truth."

It is impossible to tell a man in this town by the clothes he wears. One of the wealthiest of all novelists wears baggy pants, seldom shaved, and scots around in mud-splattered shoes run-over at the heel. Then, just the other day I dropped into a Federal court where a narcotic ring was on trial. The defendants were fashionably cut, clothes of imported tweed and other materials, and their shirts were of the newest pattern.

Newspaper men, however, continue to be the sloppiest dressers of all, despite a decade of almost constant burlesque by the movies. "And New York newspaper men are the worst-dressed in the world."

TAX TOKENS TAX
 Dodge City, Kas.—Sales tax tokens are proving a problem to the Rev. V. J. Smith.
 Finishing lunch in a cafe, he stopped at the cashier's desk to pay his check.
 "Have you any tokens?" inquired the cashier.
 "Yes, sir," replied the pastor with emphasis. "The collection plate yesterday was full of them."

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—It took very little investigation on our part to discover that a lot of railroad and Western Union employees have been missing out on free travel and telegraph service.

It has long been a matter of public knowledge that railroad employees get free railroad trips occasionally for themselves and families, and that Western Union employees can send telegrams free.

But did you know that Engineer Bill Jones on the Southern Pacific can telegraph his wife free of charge to get the car ready for a picnic when he gets back home Thursday? And did you know that the stenographer in the local Western Union office can get a free railroad pass to Florida, or California, or perhaps Paducah?

Power Over WU

We didn't know about it until the federal communications commission became wrought up about all this free service and wanted to put an end to it. The commission didn't have anything to say about how many free rides railroad men and Western Union employees got. But the members thought they ought to have a say about how many free telegrams the railroad men and Western Union employees sent on Western Union. WU is under their jurisdiction. Railroads are not.

Moreover, they wanted to put an end to free telephone service for telephone company employees.

In an effort to end all this free business, a commission bill was introduced by Representative Lea of California.

Raps Phone Company

Paul A. Walker, a commission member, was not so much incensed about the railroad-Western Union tie-up. He said somebody had to pay for it, and likely enough it was the patrons. But he was outraged by free service supplied by the telephone companies. He said too often free telephone service was given to state officials and attorneys with influence at the state public utilities commissions. We wanted it stopped.

American Telephone and Telegraph companies insisted, free service to employees was essential to the high morale.

The bill hasn't passed yet, and is due for a fight.

Parman Again Wins Net Title

Kauauna — Playing a game of relentless crossfire volleys, Jerome Parman yesterday annexed a third high school tennis championship by defeating Arthur Koehne in the finals of the high school tournament in two straight sets 6-4, 6-2.

Parman never was in real difficulty, though his diminutive opponent matched him game for game in the first set until the count reached 4-0. Each player had won his service in the first eight games, but in the ninth Parman broke through Koehne's service and went on to win the set. From that time on he allowed his opponent only two games.

The champion played a fast game as he kept his opponent on the defensive with his crossfire. This is the second time he has met Koehne in the finals, duplicating his performance of last year yesterday.

Gutgesell Takes New Federal Post

Kauauna — Howard Gutgesell, high school agriculture instructor who gave up teaching to take a position on the Coon valley soil conservation project near La Crosse, is at La Crosse today, making preparations for taking over his new position. He left Kauauna Sunday.

Gutgesell established agriculture courses at Kauauna High school this year, coming here last summer. The agriculture position is controlled partly by the federal government, which pays some of the salary. In his year here he established the Future Farmers of America, national society for farm youths, at the high school. He had numerous projects in scientific farming now in progress with the boys from his classes. He was working with his students on their projects until Saturday.

The LaCrosse job will make him a junior soil conservationist in the federal project. Coon valley encompasses 400 farms and it is here that many of the government policies, used in fighting erosion are worked out.

Management of Disposal Plant To be Considered

Council Also Will Take Action on Licenses Tonight

Kauauna — Establishing of a managing body for the city's sewage disposal plant, which is nearing completion, and action on the 28 applications for class B tavern licenses will be up for discussion at the city council's adjourned meeting called tonight in the municipal building.

The board of public works, under whose administration the sewage disposal plant has been constructed, met this morning, and it is expected that it will offer one of several possible proposals in regard to the management of the plant tonight.

One of the first problems before the council is the selecting of a superintendent for the plant. Then it must determine who is to govern the operation of the project. There are several lines of action that the council may take. It may place the plant under the jurisdiction of the board of public works. It may place it under the utility commission. It may create a new commission, working with the board of public works, which will have direct control over the disposal plant.

One Suggestion
It is expected that the board will probably suggest to the council that the board run the plant for the rest of the year, as it now is familiar with it, and that until the beginning of 1938 the council study out some plan for placing the authority. The operator of the plant, many of the aldermen believe, should be hired soon so that he will be entirely familiar with the plant's working before it actually begins operation.

Some action will also have to be taken on the construction contracts, which expire June 30. Construction cannot be completed by that date, tomorrow. Extension of time was granted once previously. Since the project is financed 45 per cent by federal funds, government approval must be given to any action taken.

The much deferred tavern license action must be taken care of tonight to have it out of the way before July 1.

How Appleton Grew Under Its 30 Mayors Since 1857

(This is the twentieth of a series of articles discussing Appleton's mayors and the important matters occurring during their administrations. These articles will appear once a week in the Post-Crescent.)

BY LLOYD DERUS

Construction of the Appleton Public library after settlement of a bitter controversy over its site was started during one of the terms of Herman Erb, Jr., who was mayor of Appleton in 1897, 1898 and 1899.

The movement for a city library was begun in 1887 when Mrs. G. C. Jones started a small library with a collection of books built upon those collected by the Y. M. C. A. The building housing the library was destroyed by fire in 1894 and in 1897, the first term of Mayor Erb, the movement for a library building grew. By January, 1899 the plan to build on Oneida street was well along. Cost of the building was to be $22,000 with the library occupying the first floor and city offices the second. The city at first was enjoined from making any payment of funds toward the building but at a later date the injunction was refused.

The Fox river valley electric cars ran for the first time in 1898. The council was petitioned for two new wards to be cut from the Second and Third wards in 1897. The same year the Hurcules building was sold to make way for the Lincoln school which was dedicated in December. Rebuilding of Prescott hospital at a cost of $4,000 was decided upon by the council in 1899, and a mandatory of Knights Templar was organized. Authorization for issuance of $50,000 in bonds for public building and street improvements was made by the council.

The new Stephenson Hall of Science at Lawrence college, erected at a cost of $40,000, was dedicated in 1899. The Royal Neighbors of America got a local charter that same year, and the post office was moved to the old Post building.

Asks Labor Secretary To Help Settle Strike

Milwaukee—(AP)—Albert O. Trostel, Jr., vice president of the Albert O. Trostel and Sons company, tanners, sent a letter to Secretary of Labor Francis Perkins yesterday asking her assistance in settling a strike at the plant.

Negotiations between the company and the employees broke off when the parties failed to agree upon a strike penalty provision which the company seeks to incorporate in the contract.

The penalty clause provides that the union will be liable for damages if it fails to allow a group of 20 workers to finish the processes in which the hides are treated with chemicals. The company asks that the group of workers continue at their tasks for four or five days after a strike call has been issued to prevent loss to the company. If the work is not completed, the company asks the union to assume liability for the loss.

Milwaukee County Is Facing 1937 Deficit

Milwaukee—(AP)—County Auditor Frank Bittner said yesterday Milwaukee county faces a deficit of $4,840,000 for 1937.

The figure was revealed in the auditor's budget analysis for the first five months of last year.

Bittner said some of this sum may be written off by a bookkeeping transaction, but $2,000,000 must be borrowed on a bond issue before mid-September, and probably another $1,000,000 or more between then and the end of the year.

List Objections to Installation Of Parking Meters in Appleton

Letters listing 10 objections to installation of parking meters compiled by the American Municipal association of Chicago have been mailed to members of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce by Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary.

Members of the retail division of the chamber of commerce are opposing the common council's plan to try parking meters on College avenue between Durkee and Superior streets for six months.

The objections listed in the letters to the members of the chamber are:

The meters place one more tax and one more harassment on car owners already suffering from too many of both these evils.

Because of their popularity with the City officials there inevitably will be continued demands for extension of the system throughout the entire business districts of the city once it has been started.

Makes Motorist Pay

In effect, the system makes a motorist pay a tax for a device, the primary purpose of which is to make it easier to apprehend and fine him for parking violations.

The system will not relieve traffic congestion because whether the motorist pays or not, the curb area still is in use as a parking zone and is not available as a traffic lane. Concentration of attention on the parking problem diverts energy that might well be spent on more important matters regarding safety on city streets.

Adoption of the meter system means the enrichment of private companies at the expense of the motorist through municipal ordinance.

While the charge of five cents is claimed to be nominal, nevertheless, the aggregate charge against motorists eventually would be tremendous, particularly if city officials are successful in having the system extended throughout the business districts.

Court Decision

Decision of an Oklahoma court, although upholding legality of the meter plan, made this observation: "If it should be disclosed by actual demonstration that these meters will produce as much revenue each day as they would the first day then the tax imposed would be exorbitant and unreasonable, and far exceed the cost of supervision. Since this is an ordinance under the police power no more can be collected under it than is necessary to defray the cost of operation and supervision."

The plan can not be operated where curbs are blocked with snow. It is inconvenient to the man who happens to have no nickels in his pocket.

There is no way of preventing motorists from taking advantage of a previous car's unexpired time; studies in Dallas indicate that fully 46 per cent of all parkers are of this type.

Initiation of new members will feature a meeting of the Appleton Kiwanis club at the Conway Hotel Wednesday noon. A report of the underprivileged children committee will be heard.

Here's a Good Example Of Capitalizing On Luck

(Copyright, 1937, Ely Culbertson)
"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I offer the enclosed as what I believe to be a good example of capitalizing on one's luck. I am not sure that North and South reached a good contract but, on their respective holdings, I frankly do not see that either of them committed any bidding error. The opponents indulged in some fancy squawking after the hand was over, because declarer had found a singleton king. They overlooked the fact that he had turned this bit of pure luck to good account by his subsequent handling of the cards. South, dealer."

JO-JOTTE POINTER
My opponent is declarer at spades. The turned trump is the seven of diamonds and the information card is the ace of hearts. My hand is:
♠ J 8 ♣ Q 10 8 7 ♦ A ♣ A K.
What should I lead from this hand?
The ten of hearts should be the opening lead. Your object should be to lead hearts at every opportunity since with five hearts in view, you have an excellent chance of shortening your opponent's trump length by forcing him to trump hearts. Your high trump and side aces should enable you to win the last trick and you have an excellent chance to defeat declarer.

Tuesday is Experts day in Ely Culbertson's column. Write your bridge comments, suggestions, and interesting hands to him, care of this paper. For questions, remember to inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

My Neighbor Says—

Most garden makers with small places think that they have too little room for growing squashes. It is quite possible to make U-shaped hills along the sides of the garden and let the plants run over the grass or perhaps against a trellis or on the fence. It is not too late to plant Summer squash seeds.

Glass stoppers may be easily removed from bottles if a towel is dipped into boiling water and wrapped around the neck of bottle for a few minutes.

When pressing a linen suit, dampen with cheesecloth that has been dipped in water, then press linen on wrong side.

Old Gardener Says:

By E. I. Farrington
Oriental poppies can be moved or divided after they have finished blooming and the leaves have begun to die down. In fact, this is the only season when they should be disturbed. They usually will not survive moving in the Spring before they bloom, or in the Fall after growth has begun again. At this season, however, the Oriental poppy plant is dormant and can be handled with ease. It is even possible to take up the roots, cut them into pieces about two inches long and replant them an inch or two deep in good soil, with the full expectation that each piece will grow and produce a new plant.

Most People Talk Too Much for This Expert

BY ANGELO PATRI
Most people talk enough and to spare, but there are few people who talk at the right time and say what is best to say. Especially parents and teachers. These good people are so chary of good words to the children that they are closest to, so reserved in the expression of the opinions and feelings, when these feelings are kindly and sympathetic, that the children know them mainly as Authority with a loud voice.

Children need to feel confident in the presence of their parents and teachers. They need to feel the ease of mind and body that comes to them only when they are sure of those in authority over them. Any uncertainty of that sort will make a child unsure in his thinking and behavior, and that cannot result in good work.

When a child gets a word of praise, when he feels kindness in your touch and in your voice, when he learns to count on you for support and understanding in moments of tribulation, he has within him a sense of power that tells him he can go ahead and do anything he wants to do without fear. That feeling brings success.

A happy child does everything he has to do with a flourish. He has more than enough energy; he has a mind free to work as it wills, he has a direct and open road to his goal.

It is easy to make a child happy. All that is needed is the feeling in your heart that you like him and wish him well. That feeling will shine through your speech, your action, your touch. It will shine through the least expression of your relationship to him and make him feel warm and cherished. Your warm liking, your good wishes, become his greatest source of power.

If you think a child looks well, tell him so. It will do a girl a lot of good to know that you think she looks like a million dollars. Tell her, "Well, young lady, they're going to know somebody's coming when you step out this morning. You're a sight for sore eyes with that color in your face and that saucy hat on your head. Play the boys today. The light and laughter such a forward hand in hand, shoulder to

Mellow Tan Better Than Deep Shade

BY ELSIE PIERCE
YOU may already have answered the question to yourself and for yourself, or the first taste of exposure may have answered it for you. But if you are fair and frankly puzzled on the question of "to tan or not to tan" the answer is more than ever "it is up to you."

Whether to tan or not is largely a matter of individual taste. But there are those who tan beautifully and look more athletic, more robust and seem to radiate joy in living after acquiring a coat of tan. And there are those who never should let the sun do even a bit of darkening damage.

Mellow Tan the Vogue
And, to a certain extent, Fashion is answering the question too. Dame Fashion is definitely frowning in a deep suntan. The very romantic feminine influence, the chiffons and sheers and dainty feminine frills simply do not strike a harmonious note with gypsy or tawny bronze hues.

Gardenia petal whiteness is more in keeping with the romantic mood. And there are those who should never be anything but gardenia white. But already I've seen many resolutions of "not to tan at all" broken. It's a human and feminine failing.

A leading beauty purveyor knowing the feminine influence in fashions and knowing the human failing just mentioned has struck a happy medium, a compromise that should be enough to delight the smart woman's heart and not hurt her skin.

One bit. She makes possible a sun beige complexion this summer; a mellow, golden tan that is quite distinctive from the dark lifesaver bronze. The latter is becoming enough to the Adonis of the beaches; but much too masculine for the modern Venus.

A suntan oil is recommended to keep the skin soft and supple while you "sun beige." A protective cream will guard against freckles and sunburn and it comes in colors to match the existing shade of your skin. A sunproof cream has as its happy job the prevention of sunburning, the while permitting sun-tanning.

And there's a complete make-up kit with everything necessary and everything in perfect harmony for the sun beige complexion.

Tomorrow, we consider types who should and types who should not tan; but even if you are the type who should remember—tan, but not too tan!

And for general skin care if you are in doubt about your type of skin or the ideal treatment for it, send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope and write for my bulletin "How to Tell Your Skin and What to Do About It."

GOO TASTE TODAY
BY EMILY POST
PAYING A MAN'S WAY
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it never permissible for a young woman to pay a restaurant check when a man is in the group? Yesterday I was made to feel very uncomfortable because I did just this thing. A young married couple, friends of mine whom I haven't seen for months and who have been so hospitable to me in their own home on more than one occasion, stopped in my office to see me. It was lunch time and I suggested they go with me to a nearby restaurant. On the way to our table I asked the waiter, aside, to bring the check to me later. Later, when he did this, the husband protested but I took it. I could see, however, that he was very much annoyed. This incident is over but because of the attitude of this man I wondered whether it is a resentment felt by most men.

Answer: Most American men hate to have a woman pay anything for them—even, and to see her actually hand money to a waiter or a ticket seller makes them doubly uncomfortable. It is always hard to reconstruct a scene accurately from a brief description but in the case you describe two things went wrong. First, your instruction to bring the check "later" had no meaning since the waiter brought it to you while your guests were still with you. Instead of waiting until later that afternoon or when ever you meant. Second, when the check was presented you evidently did not carry off the waiter's mistake with sufficient ease. When he made his protest you should have answered with smiling firmness. "Oh, but I'm your hostess. I invited you to lunch with me." To avoid this same situation in future it would be better to go where you can be assured that the check will be held for you until the following day.

Dear Mrs. Post: Early last winter a doctor and his family moved across the street, and soon after that the doctor was called out on an emergency case one evening and couldn't start his car. My husband saw his predicament and offered to drive him. Once after that, during cold weather, he asked my husband to drive him on account of car trouble. During the past month this doctor has been vaccinating all the children in the neighborhood, including our own young son. The other parents have all received bills for his services but as yet we have had none. We feel perhaps that he is not going to send us a bill and would of

Making Air Travel Safer

II—AIRPLANE TRAFFIC

Zeppelins have carried thousands of passengers, but airplanes have carried several millions. The flying age has been mostly an age of airplanes.

Above, an early triplane in flight. Below, Glenn Curtiss aboard the "June Bug."

This year a leading aviation company has announced a time schedule of 15 hours and 20 minutes for trips between California and New York.

A few years ago, that speed would have been a record for the crossing of the continent. Now it is just a new airline schedule.

Going back 20 years, we find a prize of $2,500 being offered to the first pilot who flew "a mile in a straight line." Aboard a little plane called the June Bug, Glenn Curtiss won the prize on July 4, 1909.

Amazing changes have taken place during these 29 years. Oceans and continents have been crossed, and round-the-world trips have been made. A few weeks ago I added to my airport collection a letter which Dick Merrill took with him on his recent round-trip flight across the Atlantic. It was postmarked May 8 at New York, was taken to London, then came back and was postmarked again in New York on May 14. That was six days for the round trip, and Dick spent some time in England after he got over there.

In the old days of sailing vessels, six weeks for an Atlantic round trip would have been excellent time. Now those miles are covered by airplane in six days, with some of the days used for rest and sight-seeing!

In the case of the airplane, as for dirigibles, the great problem is to make air travel safer. No matter how fast planes may fly, they will not be as successful as they should be until they are made safer. Most of us enjoy living, and the thrill of getting to a place in a hurry is not enough to make us take risks which are too great.

Of course there is risk in all living—whether we are aboard an airplane or train or bus, in our own automobile, at camp or at home. The important question is, "How much risk do we take when we fly as compared with the risk in traveling other ways?"

For some time I have given close study to figures about accidents, and here are the main facts I have found:

Judging by the average of the past few years, it is far safer to ride in a bus than in a private automobile.

Riding in a train (as a paying passenger) is more than twice as safe as riding in a bus. Each year there is a fearful toll from accidents in which railroad "trespassers" are killed, but paying passengers inside passenger cars are safer than they would be almost anywhere else.

Riding in an airplane on a scheduled trip is about one and a half times as dangerous as riding in a private automobile for a given distance.

Dix Suggests "Be Kind to Husband and Wife" Week

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Dorothy Dix—We have one week in each year in which to be kind to animals. Wouldn't it be just great if we could have a week for husbands and wives to be kind to each other? Perhaps they might get the habit. Who knows?
STELLA.

DOROTHY DIX
And how lovely it would be to see husband stroking wife's fur the right way and calling her "Pretty Kitty" and telling her how beautiful she looked with the blue ribbon he had just tied around her neck. Instead of his saying: "Uh huh," when she spoke to him and burying himself in his paper before the radio.

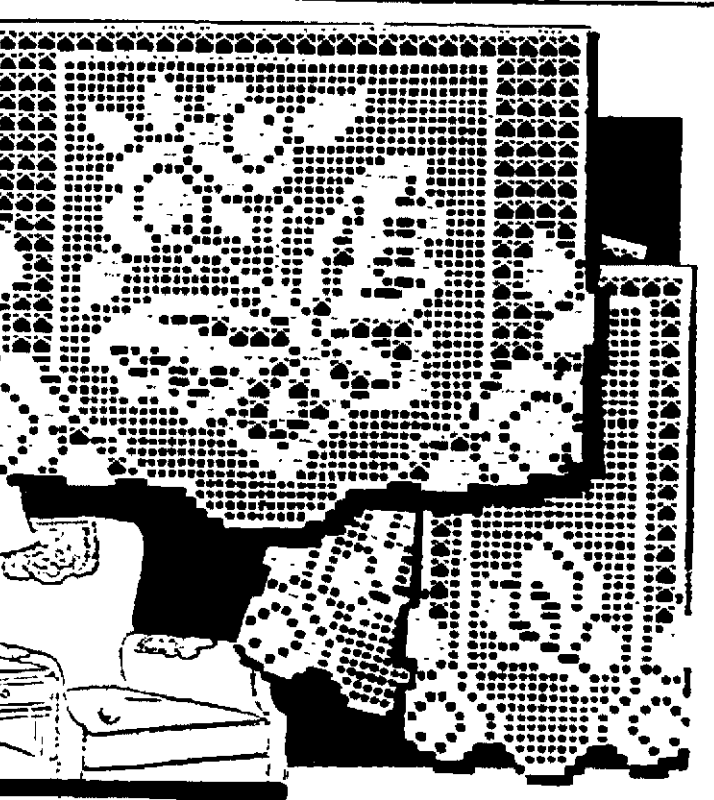

Answer: Wait until the first of next month and then if you don't receive a bill say something about it to him. If he says that the indebtedness is the other way round, say something such as "John was only neighborly—but thank you very much doctor for this time. Only you know we look upon you as our doctor and we can't send for you if we feel you are not going to send us a bill!"
(Copyright, 1937.)

It is a great suggestion. Perfectly immense. Since it appears we can only practice our virtues in mass formation and be good when everybody else is being good, let's by all means have a Be Kind to Husband and Wife week. Surely they are as much entitled to a week of being petted and pampered as any of the other work animals. It warns the heart just to think of wife giving husband a pat on the head and saying: "There, there now, good old fellow, make yourself comfortable." instead of telling him how much dirt he tracked in and how she has just worked herself to death cleaning up after him.

Oh, the idea of husbands and wives being kind and polite to each other for even a single week is a grand one. The only drawback to the plan is that if it were put into execution there would be a perfect epidemic of fatalities among middle-aged married people. Hundreds and thousands of them would drop dead with surprise.

Their hearts couldn't stand the strain of the chance in the domestic atmosphere. It has been so long since they had anything but indifference and neglect and criticism.

and fault-finding from each other that they wouldn't be able to bear up under the shock of a kiss that had warmth and love in it instead of being as flabby as a cold pancake on their cheeks. They would have to be broken in by degrees to a show of appreciation.

So, perhaps, we had better begin by a one-day celebration of husbands and wives being kind to each other and gradually work up to a whole week of it.

But it is a grand scheme that we should all get behind and push along. For, after all, the way husbands and wives treat each other is more of a habit than lack of affection. Lots of men who really love their wives never pay them a compliment or make them a present or remember their birthdays or pay them half the attention they do the dog. In fact, a woman right now is getting a divorce because she says that when her husband came home of an evening he didn't greet her the way he did Towser. And lots of women never even say "thank you" for anything their husbands do for them, or speak to them except to find fault with them.

Yet these husbands and wives must have some sentiment for each other. They must have some kindness for each other else they wouldn't stay together year after year and work their fingers off making each other comfortable.

What's the matter with them is that they have just got into the habit of taking each other for granted, and making each other the scapegoat for their nerves and temper, and they don't even know that they spat all the time and make marriage a purgatory instead of the heaven it should be.

So, if this pernicious domestic could be broken, even for a week, and husbands and wives could find out how much romance could be awakened and how the smoldering ashes of love could be quickened into flame by a few kind words, and how much fun it would be to try to tell themselves to each other as they did in the days of courtship, why, they might go on being decent to each other. At any rate, the scheme is worth trying.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My husband has become an enthusiastic nudist and insists upon me becoming one. To be at peace with him I tried nudism for two seasons, but I can't like it, no matter how hard I try. I have a nice figure and am not ashamed of it, but I cannot bear to expose myself to total strangers in the altogether. My husband and I argue over this problem every year as soon as warm weather comes. Perhaps I am wrong in my views and should do as he says, but am I to be nothing but play in his hands and have no right to an opinion of my own?
MRS. K. L.

Answer: Well, if you are going to be clay in your husband's hands, I earnestly advise you to drape it. Clothes are mighty kind to a woman, no matter how good her figure is. Remember that the first thing that Eve did after she ate of the Tree of Knowledge was to make herself a dress.

File Claim of $5,000 Against City of Menasha

Claim Municipality Liable In Hit-and-Run Death Case

Menasha—A claim of approximately $5,000 against the city of Menasha was filed by the estate of the late Frank Zelinski with the city council at its special session last night.

Zelinski was fatally injured by a hit-and-run driver on Plank road on May 25 of this year. The petition, signed by Mrs. Frank Zelinski, charged that the lack of sidewalks along the road was responsible for the man's death. The claim was turned over to Edward McKenzie, city attorney.

At the recommendation of the fire and police committee, the council voted to purchase a new motor cycle at a cost of $336 plus the two old machines. On the motion of Alderman C. J. Oberweiser, chairman of the fire and police committee, the council agreed to transfer the money from the general fund to the police budget.

Disapproval of the proposed ornamental lighting system for Edge-water drive was contained in the report from the electric and water utilities read at last night's meeting.

Adverse Report

The adverse report carried the three following recommendations: (1) That the posts from in front of the library are not steel and do not conform to the city code. That such a project would set a precedent; (2) That the difference in the expense between the present system and the proposed ornamental lighting would be so great that it should be assessed the abutting property owners.

The aldermen discussed the suggested extension of water mains on Madison street and voted to meet with members of the water and light commission and the property owners involved at the next meeting.

On motion of Alderman Oberweiser, the council adopted a resolution protesting to the Wisconsin Telephone company over the omission of Menasha from a publication showing the location of exchanges in the state. According to Oberweiser, the chart showed the exchange to be in Neenah.

His Opinion

"I've always been of the opinion that the station is known as the Neenah-Menasha office," he said.

Authorize Probe

Aldermen authorized an investigation of complaints received on the new city water. Alderman Martens said that many people in the city are not used to drinking the new water and that those few should not be forced to drink it. A report of the situation will be heard at the next council session from the committee on police, fire and health.

Alderman Loehning reported that men would be available about July 10 from the relief roll and that work could be started on the WPA project. He suggested that the work be started near Nicolet school and on Second street. Disposal of broken concrete from the project was discussed and the matter was left in the hands of the street committee.

The mayor and city clerk were authorized and given power to act in the event that the 40 or 48 requested the use of city property for a proposed celebration. No communication was received from the organization which prevented aldermen from taking action on the matter.

Do you know how easy it is to own a Packard in Appleton?

It costs only a dollar or two more a week to buy a PACKARD SIX than any car in the "LOW-PRICED FIVE"

IS IT any wonder, then, that more than half of all the purchasers of the sensational Packard Six are coming up from the "low-priced five" field?

Especially when you remember that the Packard Six doesn't cost a penny more than those cheaper cars to operate and maintain.

In fuel economy, it challenges the best of them. It averages less, we believe, for service costs. And it is the only car in the lower-priced field with enduring identity!

Come in—let us appraise your present car.

If it is of average value, it will cover the down payment on a Packard Six—and the balance will be as little as $31 a month!

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

Here are the figures for Appleton, based on regular down payment percentages and uniform number of monthly payments.

CAR A—$1.84 more a week buys a Packard Six

CAR B—$1.39 more a week buys a Packard Six

CAR C—$3.63 more a week buys a Packard Six

CAR D—$2.12 more a week buys a Packard Six

CAR E—$2.05 more a week buys a Packard Six

Highway Board Claims Menasha Owes State $1,743

Menasha—A letter from the state highway commission claiming that the city owes $1,743.63 as its share in the heating bill for the two comfort stations on Tayco street bridge was read at the special council meeting last night.

The commission contends that the stations are "not necessarily pertinent points of the bridge" and that according to legal opinion delivered by an attorney in the office of Attorney General O. Loomis, the state is not responsible for either maintenance or operation of that portion of the structure.

The letter, signed by C. H. Kirch, bridge engineer, stated that "when the state took over the operation of the bridge in 1935, it did not carry the obligation to operate the facilities." The bill which the commission has sent the city is for the cost of electrically heating the comfort stations since that time. "This figure is on the basis of our share of 25 per cent," the letter stated.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

whether someone other than the Skipper had fed them.

"Who usually feeds the dogs, William?" I inquired.

"Miss Barbara, always."

"Always? Even the last few days?"

"Once or twice I've fed them for her—not lately."

"Of course not. I might have known that William would say just that."

"Then who did feed them these last few days?" I demanded bluntly.

"I don't know," and William plodded on.

The stable and garage doors were both securely padlocked. William opened the former without a word, and we stepped inside.

"Skipper!" I shouted at the top of my lungs.

There was no answer, except for the yowling of the dogs. I looked into every one of those stalls. Some of them had a little water, but there was no food in any of them. The animals were ravenous. The collie bitch sprang at me curiously, snarling with a whimper when I spoke to her. The others were tugging wildly at their chains and yelping mournfully. So the Skipper had forgotten to feed her dogs—from the looks of them had forgotten it two days on a row.

"William," I said, "the minute we get back to the house, see that these dogs are fed."

"Yes, sir," The Skipper's forgetting her dogs was equivalent to Napoleon's forgetting his army. "It's funny, sir."

The Only Earthly Reason
I agreed that it certainly was. With poor old Farrington stretched out on the game room table, these dogs were the only early reason for the Skipper's leaving the house. And she had not been near them. Where the blazes was she then? I mounted the ladders and peered into on loft after the other, shining the light all around them. One disclosed the few duty footprints that I myself had left there yesterday. On the other, the undisturbed floor of a decade still rested. I came down slowly.

"We may as well look in the garage," I said.

William's grunt might have meant almost anything. We locked the stable door behind us, and entered the garage. The dry smears of clay hopelessly blurred under our impatient feet. The place smelled stuffy and dead. I called again and again, but there was no answer.

"Upstairs," I suggested. William.

"For the second time in as many days, I mounted those steps. The first time I had feared to find some-

Doesn't Know Hoist Is Being Elevated, Hurt in 6-Foot Fall

Monroe, Wis.—(P)—John Leuth, Brodhead cheesemaker, wasn't in his automobile when it was wrecked with another driver at the wheel, but today he has several fractured ribs just the same.

Inspecting the damage at a garage, Leuth stood on the running board of the car unmindful that it was being raised by hydraulic hoist. He stepped backward and plunged six feet to the floor.

Authorize Reduction In Kohler Gas Rates

Madison—(P)—The state public service commission announced Monday it had authorized a $50-a-year reduction in gas rates at Kohler, Wis., following an agreement by the Wisconsin Public Service corporation.

Kohler is served by the Sheboygan gas plant along with Sheboygan Falls, Plymouth, Elkhart Lake, Kiel, New Holstein and Chilton. The commission decided Kohler is entitled to a slight differentiation over the other towns because of its nearness to Sheboygan. The new rates become effective after next meter readings.

Residential and commercial users of electricity in Galesville, Centerville, Dodge and Pine Creek, Trempealeau county, will benefit by a $2,000 annual reduction in rates, effective after June meter readings, the commission said. The Wisconsin Central utilities company serves the three communities.

The commission dismissed a rate complaint of "iron belt" consumers of the Lake Superior District Power company on the ground that a recent general rate revision remedied the matter.

Budge, Parker in English Net Semis

Milwaukee Eliminates Second Ranking German Player

Wimbledon, Eng.—(U)—Two American Davis cup aces, California's Don Budge and Milwaukee's Frank Parker, were safely into the semifinals of the English men's singles championship.

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, Germany's No. 1 star, and Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, last potent remnant of Britain's great cup winners of a year ago, are the other semi-finalists in the men's division. Von Cramm and Austin play in one match tomorrow while Budge and Parker meet in the other.

Budge continued his terrific play by beating Australia's Vivian McGrath out of the tournament, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4. He has not yet lost a set in this tournament or the Queen's tourney played prior to the Wimbledon encounters.

Parker's defeat of Heinrich Henkel, second ranking German was a surprise. He outlasted the German in a terrific five-set duel, 6-3, 7-5, 4-6, 6-2. He had better luck than his teammate Bryan (Bitey) Grant of Atlanta, who lost to Austin, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4. Von Cramm came through in five sets over the Australian veteran Jack Crawford after Crawford bid strongly for the match in the third and fourth sets. The scores were 6-3, 3-6, 3-6, 2-6, 6-2.

H. S. TRACK STAR GETS GOLD SHOE FROM LIONS HEAD

Appleton Lions club yesterday feted members of Appleton High school's state and Valley conference track team and presented the boys with gold shoes in a program at the Conway hotel. One member of the squad who was unable to attend the luncheon and meeting was Karl Bohnsack, recuperating from a recent operation. So newly installed Lions club president, Carl Holstrom, accompanied by Coach Joseph Shields of the Terror squad, went to "Boney's" home where the presentation was made to the Terror's co-captain-elect and star broad jumper and pole vaulter. The presentations at the hotel were made by F. N. Belanger, chairman of the committee which arranged for the program. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

The Kaukauna-Kimberly contest probably will be the most interesting to Valley fans for a win for the Kaws can put the team back in first place. Then there's the feeling that has cropped up between the two clubs during the last couple weeks over players and the natural rivalry between the teams.

Carvenough is expected to hurt for the Electric City team while Al LaDuke should be ready for Kimberly. He rested last Sunday while Al Behr turned in a nice game.

Both squads recently were strengthened, Kaukauna by the addition of Howie Radder, outfielder and University of Wisconsin player, and Kimberly by Hal Schroeder, shortstop and also University of Wisconsin player.

N. Y. Yankees Opposed to Baseball Players' Union

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK (U)—Fight chatter: Jack Patrick, Flint, Mich., promoter, has offered $10,000 to defend his banbanweight title against K. O. Morgan in Flint sometime during the summer. Pedro Montanez, the lightweight, reaches Puerto Rico today to finish training for his ten-rounder with Frankie Wallace of Cleveland, July 4. Arturo Godoy, the big Chilean, is sought on the coast for a July fight with Big Boy Bray in San Francisco.

Henry Armstrong, Al Jolson's Negro featherweight, has begun training here for a ten rounder with Al Blatch of Australia in Madison Square Garden, July 8. Last time Armstrong was cast he went out of his class to beat lightweight Aldo Spoliti.

Tazio Nuvolari, who won last year's Vanderbilt race, thinks the re-designing of the Roosevelt raceway will keep him from repeating next Saturday.

Every change they've made favors the Germans, says Tazio. Over in Brooklyn, Red Luzzin of the Quincey A. A. darts right-handed when playing the outfield, but turns southpaw when he goes on the hill.

The proposal to organize a big league ball players' union, the Yankees said, leaves the Yankees cold. Stewards at Rockingham Park have told the jockeys that they don't mean maybe about this rough riding business. All the principals in the 1500 meter run in the national A. A. U. track meet at Milwaukee next Saturday, are native middle westerners.

George M. Cohan's "March of the Cardinals" dedicated to the St. Louis gas house gang, is being sold in sheet music form. E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill. has the distinction of owning the fastest trotter and pacer now campaigning in Greyhound 1571 and Cardinal Prince, 1581. Sep Palin, Baker's trainer, has just laid $1,000 on the line to have an international race between Greyhound and the Mussolini-owned Muscleton this summer.

The nine Gerson boys form what is believed to be the only softball team in the country composed entirely of brothers.

Archie Templeton, the young strikeout king the Cards found in a North Carolina orphanage, has been sent to the Shelby team in the St. Louis league for seasoning and will face 18 batters in his pro debut.

Jack Doyle, the Irish heavy-weight, who may be Joe Louis' next opponent, has started training by touring the night spots. Mike Jacobs thinks the Comiskey park layout is better suited for a big fight than the Yankee Stadium.

The fine work of young Sammy Bell, Montreal's pint sized second sacker, continues to draw rave notices all around the International league wheel. Jack Sharkey, golden glove middleweight champion, has been flooded with offers to turn pro. No less than four smart New York managers are following him around. Won't he stay till the football news starts easing into the papers.

Giants Stand to Move Up as N.L. Leaders Battle

Cubs Must Meet Bucs. Cards While Terrymen Play in 2nd Division

BY BILL MONI
Associated Press Sports Writer
FOR the sake of their pennant chances, it is to be hoped that the New York Giants, back in the days of their individual and respective childhoods, studied closely the parable of the little dog that ran away with the bone while the big dogs were fighting over it.

As major league activity was resumed today on all fronts, with the eastern and western teams at home in each circuit, the Giants found themselves in much the same spot as that smart little pup. While, from now until the all-star game on July 7, they will be disputing against the National league's second-division outfits, the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs will play each other five times.

This morning the standings found the Cubs in front by seven points and half a game over the Cards, ten points and half a game over the Giants. While the two front-runners are knocking each other off—the Cubs also have a four-game set with the Pirates on tap—a reasonable amount of the "brakes" may bring the New Yorkers back into the lead they relinquished to Chicago just two weeks ago.

Cubs Are Tough
The Cubs, of course, are going to be tough to dislodge. Since their pitching staff returned to its normally healthy state some time ago, it has been running like a well-lubricated machine, with each of seven hurlers credited with four or more victories.

Larry French, Charles Root and Tex Carleton are bracketed at the four-win notch. Next comes Roy Parmelee, at five, then Clay Bryant and Clyde Shoun, tied at six, with Bill Lee tops at seven. That accounts for all of the Cub triumphs.

The Cardinals' pitching strength is almost entirely concentrated in three men, Dizzy Dean, who has won eleven games; Lonnie Warneke, who has won nine, and Lefty Bob Weiland, who has won six. Credited with twenty-six of the 55 games the Redbirds have won, the St. Louis clubbers are the ones who will have benefitted most of yesterday's scheduled day of rest.

Where three men have shouldered the pitching burden for the gas house gang, and seven have distributed it evenly for the Cubs, the Giants have struck some sort of balance between the two extremes. Bill Terry's revamped "Big Four" consists of Carl Hubbell, 10-game winner; Hal Schumacher and Slick Castelman, seven each, and Cliff Melton, six.

Milwaukee Cops Third Straight

Brewers Defeat Indianapolis, 6 to 0; Zuber Winning Hurler

Chicago—(U)—The slugging Milwaukee Brewers, having blasted a few feathers off the Toledo Mud Hens in the opening battle of their important skirmish on the Hen's home field, were out today to tighten their newly acquired American association leadership.

Needing victory to take the circuit lead from the Hens, the Brewers scored in every inning but the ninth last night for an 18 to 3 win which gave them first place by a half-game. While Henry pitched five-hit ball and allowed only one run until the last frame, the Brewers hit three Hen flingers for 25 blows.

Columbus won a thrill-packed battle from St. Paul, 9 to 6, rallying with the winning run in the ninth after the Saints had tied the score in the eighth. "Skeeter" Webb, Columbus shortstop, started the winning drive by doubling. He took third on an infield out and trotted home a moment later on Johnny Chamber's long fly to left.

Milwaukee's Brewers shutout Indianapolis 6 to 0 behind steady eight-hit pitching by Zuber. The Brewers collected 11 safeties and clinched the game with a four-run burst in the second.

In a third night tilt, Kansas City defeated Louisville 12 to 9, although outlit.

There is a reason for this, which has pulled many a putter out of the mire of despondency. Letting the ball die at the hole enables it to drop into the cup from either side or from the front. This allows a margin for error in stroking that would not be possible were the ball hit harder.

Putting is an exact science and the golfer should give himself the benefit of the method which makes sinking the ball easiest. The old adage, "never up never in," holds as true today as always but that is no reason a putter should run past the hole consistently. Keep the putter head at right angles to the ball and in line with the hole in the stance. Then let the clubhead float into it with enough power to carry it up to the cup.

B.D.M. Again Gets Elks Golf Tourney

Heber Pelkey Named Chairman of Lady's Golf Association

The state Elks golf tournament will be held at Butte des Morts Golf club this summer, it was decided at a meeting of state Elks golf association representatives here Sunday. The date will be in August.

Heber Pelkey was named chairman of the state association and will direct the program. The meet was held here last year with Wilfred Wehrle, Racine, winning the title and the Milwaukee team the lodge trophy. Butte des Morts was second.

The plan for the tournament is similar to last year. There will be district tournaments at Green Bay for northeastern teams, at Stevens Point for northwestern teams and at Kenosha for southern teams. Three teams of five men each from each district will be certified to compete in the state tourney and a player, to be eligible to seek individual honors in the state meet, must have played in the district meet. The district meets will be completed by the night of July 24.

THE WEEK'S GAMES
June 28—Congo versus Mt. Olive.
June 30—Evangelicals versus Methodists.
July 2—Presbyterians versus Eng. Lutheran.

Mt. Olive softball team in the Church league defeated the strong Congregational team by a 3 to 2 score last night at Roosevelt field. The game was marked by sensational fielding by both teams and saw Schinke, Mt. Olive, hang up his sixth straight victory. He allowed seven hits and was opposed by Dutcher who gave up six.

The winners started scoring in the first game. Ehke fanned but McKee hit, Schinke walked and Eddie Krause tripled scoring the two men on base. In the fourth the Congo tallied with Ashman crossing the rubber but Mt. Olive did likewise with Krause registering. The final score of the game came in the eighth when Gelbke crossed the plate after Furringer hit a line drive.

In the ninth the Congo almost tied the score when Dutcher walked, stole second and third. When Milt Schwandt hit a line drive to Ehke at second, Dutcher tried to score but was nipped by a perfect peg to Krause. Krause was the fielding star of the game and got two hits in three tries at bat.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Only member of Fred Waring's swing gang not under contract to the maestro was Johnny "Seal" Davis. . . Johnny worked with the rest in "Varsity Show" and Warner Bros. adjusted his contractless existence. . . He'd been with Waring five years, didn't want a contract. . . But being a movie comedian was different. . . Looks like an inter-studio contest to see who'll pay the most—in print, at least—for a story property. . . "Room Service" went to Warner's for a reported $250,000. . . Columbia was supposed to have paid $200,000 for "You Can't Take It With You." . . Goldwyn dishd out $165,000 for "Dead End," with adaptation costs running the ante around $205,000. . . There's a mark for a playwright to shoot at: to be first to sell out for a million. . . Once upon a time Anita Loos got $15 per scenario. . . and thought she was making money, too.

Paul Guilfoyle, after seeing a movie, found a strange young woman in his car. . . She demanded to be taken home. . . He did. . . But drove through Westwood to pick up Mrs. Guilfoyle first. . .

After catching the last half of "That Man's Here Again" at a preview, I see why Hugh Herbert groaned at stardom in it. . . He's pleased about "Singing Marine," however. . . I think because he gets to play himself and his own sister in it. . . Hugh's wearing a brilliant sports coat. . . Dark blue, generously shot with bright blue. . . Came from Mrs. James Cagney's wool shop. . . which in turn came from Mrs. Jim's interest in hand-weaving.

Ginger and Mrs. Rogers are living in their new home while the carpenters finish building it. . . They even had a dinner party, for Harriet Hilliard and Ozzie Nelson. . . Ginger sleeps in an over-sized bed. . . so big, says Mrs. Rogers, that one morning a couple of carpenters went in her room, fixed some sagdets, and went out again without ever noticing that Ginger was asleep somewhere in the broad expanse. . .

This is the tale of Limy Flew, the prop man. He swears it's true. "The Perfect Specimen" was on location at Fintbridge, near Pasadena. Joan Blondell and Errol Flynn were supposed to stroll along a woodland path. Joan was to stop and pick a bunch of wildflowers. Seems Michael Curtis, directing, decided there should be some bees buzzing around the flowers. Limy procured a hive. With foresight and solicitude for his players, Limy removed all the stingers before turning the bees loose to graze. Unfortunately, the sequence was Thursday.

THESE MEN WILL FEATURE A.A.U. TRACK MEET

A few of the many brilliant athletic stars who will shine in the National A. A. U. track and field championships at the Marquette university stadium in Milwaukee. Friday and Saturday, July 2 and 3, are shown in the accompanying grouping.

Archie San Romani is the Emporia (Kas.) Teachers' speedster who ran a 4:07.2 mile at Princeton recently, and will be gunning for a new 1500 meter record at Marquette. Keen competition will come from Glenn Cunningham, New York Curb Exchange A. A. who holds the world's record of 4:06.7 in the mile, and from other standouts.

Ken Carpenter, former Southern California discus star; John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's 800-meter ace, and Forrest (Spec) Towns, Georgia hurdler, won Olympic championships in Berlin last summer, and are all capable of setting new world records this weekend.

Bill Sefton of Southern California has done 14 feet, 11 inches in the pole vault this season, and will be just one of several luminaries in the aerial event. His teammate, Earle Meadows, the 1936 Olympic champion, also has cleared 14 feet, 11 inches.

A big field of sprinters, including four Olympians, will be competing for the vacated Metcalfe-Owens sprinting crowns. Among the favorites is Temple University's Eulace Peacock, co-holder of the world's record at 100 meters.

Trials will be held, Friday afternoon, and the junior meet, that night. Senior final championships are billed for Saturday afternoon.

Busy Program Planned for National A.A.U. Tourney

MILWAUKEE—A busy and congested program, but one that is so arranged that it will be run off smoothly and on time, faces more than 300 athletes in the fifth annual National A. A. U. outdoor track and field championships in the Marquette university stadium here on Friday and Saturday.

The Friday afternoon program, opening at 2 o'clock and with no admission charge in effect, will feature the junior and senior 10,000 meter championship runs, the junior hammer final and trials of most of the junior events.

Bright floodlights will beam down Friday night at 8 o'clock, when the junior championship meet gets under way. The juniors are open to all amateurs, regardless of age, who have not won a senior or national title. Many of America's stars of tomorrow undoubtedly will be discovered in this meet. Reserved seats will cost 55 cents and $1.10, with a 25 cent rate for children under 16.

The big show, the senior national finals, will get under way at 2 p. m. Saturday with tickets costing $1.10 and $2.20, and 40 cents for children. Pole vaulting will start an hour earlier, just as it will on Friday night.

There will be no admission charge. Saturday morning, for the senior hammer throw finals and senior trials in other events, if they are found necessary.

Tickets are on sale in Milwaukee at Spaulding's, 709 N. Water street; not quite completed at day's end. Limy gave the bees a call back for the next a. m.

During the night, however, two non-union bees got into the hive and next morning they stung Flynn. Under rigid questioning Limy admits he did exaggerate a bit. He says that actually only one non-union bee was involved.

Fred Astaire blazes when fans ask him for autographs. Real, crimson-red blazes. Just from embarrassment. He'll sign 'em but doesn't see why the fans want 'em. Sometimes the fan is as embarrassed as he is, and then it's a blushing contest.

Ora, 18, and Robert, 16, daughter and son of Victor Moore, made their film debuts with their father in "Missus America."

PLAN 5 BROADCASTS
Milwaukee—Eight separate broadcasts on the National A. A. U. track and field championships at the Marquette university stadium, Friday and Saturday, will be made by the National Broadcasting company on coast-to-coast hookup. Bill Stern, NBC's New York sports announcer, will open the series with a preview from 2:15 to 2:30 p. m. (C. S. T.), Thursday.

Fish and Game Meeting
Scheduled for July 7
Waupaca—A fish and game meeting is to be held in the courthouse July 7 at 7:30 in the evening. Hunters and fishermen will discuss fish and game laws for the coming year. Each county in the state has a similarly scheduled meeting.

The Milwaukee Athletic club and the Marquette gymnasium. Mail orders may be sent to the gymnasium.

Knapsteins Will Play 3 Games in Next Two Weeks

Two Will be at Home Under Lights. Schedule Reveals

New London—A busy schedule looms for the New London Knapstein Brews with three games within the next week, two on the home diamond under the lights.

Since defeating the Brews in a league game under the sun Sunday afternoon, Weyauwega has consented to return for an exhibition game under the lights at 8:30 Thursday evening. After some experience they may consider more night league games in the future. Munsch and Munsch will continue as the invading battery while Pete Westphal will hurl for the Brews. Pete pitched Clintonville to its first defeat in a postponed game here two weeks ago. Weyauwega has a slight edge on the Brews now after copying their second place in the league Sunday.

Sunday night the home diamond will be lighted for the invasion of Marion, a scrappy team from the north which stands near the bottom of the league but handed Clintonville, the league leaders, a 2 to 1 decision last Sunday. Clifford "Tip" Krohn will mount the bat for New London in the league contest.

While the Fourth of July is being celebrated Monday afternoon the New London club will travel to Shawano in another league game. Beckert is scheduled to regain his form against the under-dogs who have failed to win a game to date. Orin Krohn will complete the battery for all games.

New London Personals

New London—Mrs. Mary Besaw, 87, route 1, New London, fell and fractured her left wrist and suffered other bruises yesterday afternoon. She was admitted to Community hospital for care.

Mrs. M. M. McDonnell and niece, Mary Lovine, left Sunday to spend the summer at the McDonnell's cottage on Clear Lake near Tomahawk, Wis.

Mrs. Jennie Corry, Fond du Lac, is visiting the home of Mrs. Nellie Wells for several weeks.

The Misses Alice and Lucille Palmer, Madison, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer. They had as guests their escorts, Harold Blum, Madison, and Maynard Bartling, Beloit.

Andrew Rumenoff was at Marshfield Saturday, Sunday and Monday participating in the jubilee celebration of the rebuilding of that city after the disastrous fire of 25 years ago.

Mrs. Henry Nollenberg, route 2, Manawa, was admitted to Community hospital yesterday.

Phyllis, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Jacobs, Shiocton, was taken to Community hospital Sunday when she was kicked by a horse. She suffered a broken rib.

New London Society

A large delegation of New London persons attended the annual district picnic of the Odd Fellows lodge at Camp Cleghorn on the Waupaca lakes Sunday. Members of the New London Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges were present. New London has the largest lodge in the district and was represented in the majority also.

Firm Receives Award For Safety Record

New London—A bronze plaque was presented to the American Plywood corporation and employees last week by the Employers Mutuals insurance company of Wausau for having the lowest accident average in the state of Wisconsin for the year 1936. The large number of employees, usually between 500 and 400, is a contributing factor in the low average maintained by the plant here.

DRUNKS FINED

New London—Sixteen, O'Connell, Appleton, and Leslie Hutten, New London, were fined $5 and costs for being in a public place in violation of the law Sunday morning when they pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness. O'Connell was arrested on South Pearl street Saturday afternoon and Hutten on Saturday street early Sunday evening.

New London Office

News and circulation departments of the Appleton Post-Crescent are represented in New London by Alvin J. Brault, 103 E. Cook street. News items and orders for subscriptions may be left at that address or may be telephoned by calling 18. Papers missed by carriers will be delivered if complaint is made before 7 p. m.

Build Addition to Borden Firm Plant

New London—A 24 by 60 foot addition is being built onto the concrete garage of the Borden Milk Products company on the banks of the Wolf river. The structure will be used for storing the several milk tank trailers used by the company in cross-country hauling of milk. The addition will be completed soon with the laying of a concrete ramp and erection of sliding doors.

New London—The Plywood softball team came from below and upset the favored Hamilton squad, 4 to 1, in an industrial league game under the lights last night. The defeat dumped the kraut team far into third place.

Servis nearly blanked the Hamilton aggregation allowing only two hits. He and Meshnick at first base played half the game themselves. Meshnick got in on nine assists at first while Servis was on the delivery end of six of the put-outs at the base. There were not more than a dozen other plays in the field.

Walks Four
The Plywood pitcher walked four and fanned two. He was in hot water only once in the first inning when he walked three in succession after Beaudoin, first up for the krauters, singled to gain the only run of the evening. Servis whiffed the next batter and trusted to his mates to stop the next two.

Nader fanned nine for Hamiltons but walked eight, allowing five hits. Two walks in the second accounted for two tallies for the Plywood and a 2-bagger by Polaski Stern ran the score up two more in the sixth.

The Plywoods and High Lifes will work double shifts this week. They will meet in a postponed game Friday night, according to present plans, when the High Lifes will also tangle with Bordens.

WAUPACA COUNCIL ORDERS STREET IMPROVEMENTS

Waupaca's common council, pictured above, is taking steps to assure a "dustless city." Work was ordered begun immediately on oil matting of nearly three miles of streets. This project, which has long had the support of Mayor F. R. Fisher, will be done by county crews and equipment. Pictured, left to right on front of the table, are: City Clerk Walter Nelson, Mayor Fisher and Irving Erickson, Third ward alder-

Describes Trip From Waupaca to Peru With Shipment of Wisconsin Cattle

New London—A trip from Waupaca to Peru with a shipment of cattle was described to New London Rotarians yesterday by P. O. Peterson, superintendent of the Waupaca county poor farm, in a talk before the noon luncheon meeting of the club at the Elwood hotel. The lengthy trip was made some years ago and the speaker covered only the forward journey. Rotarians plan to hear of the return trip sometime next month.

The pure bred cattle were taken from Waupaca to New Orleans by rail where the party embarked by boat for Peru. Both men and cattle became seasick, the speaker related. He told of the sights along the way, described a storm in the Gulf of Mexico, the near approach of a hurricane, the passing through the Panama canal and the progress to Ecuador.

Schools of Fish
He told of schools of fish which the boat passed through in the tropical waters, the numerous birds which lived on the water, and the loud chatter of the wild parrots at one port. The South American coast along that point was harborless, the speaker recounted, and ships unloaded cargo, sometimes precipitously, by means of flat boats. Inhabitants of Peru live mostly on fruit and coconuts, Peterson said, and it is too hot to preserve any food.

The Rotary club celebrated the birthday of August Memhardt yesterday and his cake was sold to Harold Zaig. The entire club, except for several absentees, had its photograph taken with the cake for publication in the Rotary International magazine in connection with the eyeglass fund for needy children which the club finances through the sale of the birthday cakes. About 21 members were present yesterday.

Lack of Attendance Halts Ladies Days at Swim Pool

New London—"No more ladies day at the Hatten Memorial park swimming pool" is the edict issued this week by R. M. Shortell, city recreation director in charge. Because only 11 women availed themselves of the special privilege last Thursday when the mercury set a season's record for heat, and only six of those women were from New London, and because too many male bathers were turned away, the pool in the future will be open to all adults every afternoon and evening, Shortell announced. There was a record crowd of 127 bathers in the pool last Thursday evening.

Another change in schedules allows senior high school boys and girls two additional days' swimming, Friday and Saturday afternoon, besides Sunday afternoon and the previous schedule, girls on Monday afternoon and boys on Tuesdays. The afternoon periods are in addition to the regular free morning periods for children of high school age or under.

Misunderstanding
"Apparently a great many people stay away from the new pool because they misunderstand the extent and purposes of the regulations," Shortell quoted. All that is required is a hot water shower with soap before entering the pool and walking through the foot bath on the way out. Afterwards a short rinse bath under the showers and a rubdown with the towel is advisable to remove the chemical-laden water of the pool. Ladies' showers have been enclosed with canvas for more privacy.

"Some people may be offended because they are required to take a shower in order to enter the pool 'clean,'" Shortell continued. The pre-shower is necessary largely to remove the ever-present perspiration products and possible germ-carrying deposits on the skin, he pointed out. Physical cleanliness naturally follows. The foot bath is to prevent athlete's foot and other common carrier diseases prevalent in public bathhouses, he explained.

Pure Water
"The water in the pool is pure and free from infective germs, but that condition is secured and maintained by heavy chemical solutions. For this reason it is wise to rinse the pool water from the body with a 'plain water shower' afterwards and insure against possible bodily discomforts later," he continued.

Paid attendance at the pool for the week of Sunday, June 20 to Sunday, June 27, numbered 482 bathers compared to 295 for the previous week. The wire fence enclosure has been closed to spectators because the inner wooden fence has been found inadequate and an additional attendant would be required to watch over it, the director declared.

Basketball standards have been prepared and it is planned to start organized play in water basketball and water polo for boys and girls within a week. The children's swim schedules have been correlated with the playgrounds schedules to provide a more balanced and rounded recreation program for children.

Small children will be cared for at McKinley school on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday this week. Mrs. Lila Pillsbury will be in charge from 9 to 12 o'clock in the morning and from 2 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. After July 6 it is planned to provide a wider and more definite schedule of hours at both schools. Miss Leach is in charge at Lincoln school.
